

Vrooman Tells Students Of Conditions in Turkey

At chapel Wednesday and Thursday, the student body had the privilege of listening to Lee Vrooman '18, who is soon to leave for Turkey, where he is to carry on the Student Fellowship movement, and make Maine-in-Turkey a reality.

As a member of the class of 1918, he first congratulated the student body on the remarkable display of spirit in the recent drive for the Memorial Fund, for he explained that his class suffered worse casualties in the war than any other one. He showed that even as the new armory is to be a memorial to those who died in the cause, so also will this Student-Fellowship movement be, for it will reflect glory on those brave men and their Alma Mater.

He explained at the outset the Near East problem is an old one. On the narrow isthmus which is the connecting point between East and West, are set up tablets, proof of the expeditions and victories, in turn, of old Sargon, Nebuchadnezzar, Alexander the Great, the Romans, the Semi-Barbarians; then, more recently, of a king of Egypt, and lastly of France and England in the World War.

"The world is more than ever a unit," he went on to say, "and the future of the East is intimately connected with that of the West. Christ put forth the theory that 'all men are brothers' and the last few years have proved it. An idea goes quickly all over the world. The radio is a great factor. The Chinese are installing radios. The Turks are coming in greater contact with the rest of the world through this agency."

"The world is constantly changing. 40 years ago nobody took any interest in Japan as a political factor. Today she is numbered among the powers of the world. She has a greater navy than England and America, and she has a military force that would defeat the

Girl's Baseball

Under the direction of Miss Huesman the girls are organizing indoor baseball squads. The girls are very enthusiastic about it and intend to have strong class teams and then the fun will begin! Specialties along this line are the Norwood twirl and the Staples curve. Watch for them!

Track Squad Preparing For M. I. T. Dual Meet

The track squad seems to be getting into good trim as the Dual Meet on April 28 approaches despite the tough weather. They have not had a fair chance either to train themselves or show what they are good for, because the men have been forced to practice in the limited area of the cage and the board track. This week the weight men have been able to get outside but it is still very wet and muddy. The track will not be in shape for quite a while yet. The late Spring has not given the track men a chance but they are making the best of the circumstances. Once out on dry ground it will be easier to judge just what kind of a team we will have this year.

Lawry and Thomas look good for the "century" and with Capt. Lawrence are getting in good shape for the 220 yard run. In the 440, Cahill, Strong and Lawrence are coming along fine.

In the half mile, Murray, O'Connor, Kneeland, Ridlon and Moody are all contenders for the team. Raymond, Ames and MacKeehan are working out in the mile and MacKeehan, Hillman and Noyes are all training for the two mile grind.

In the hurdles, Fenderson and True are trying for the 120 yard and Fenderson, Dunn and Murray for the 220 yd. event.

Ackley, Boyden, Plummer, Gidding and Houghton all seem to be doing well at the high jump. Doerr, Larabee, and

Maine Rifle Club Has Completed Good Season

The University of Maine Rifle Club has finished a successful season. They shot in twelve matches, winning eight, losing three and tying one. Coach Kidney feels that the club has had a good season, but he believes that a better standing could be had if there had been more competition for the team and more practice by the squad.

The Rifle Club won from Columbia City College of New York, New York University, Bowdoin, New Hampshire State, Ohio State, Dartmouth, Vermont; lost to Virginia Polytechnic Institute; M. I. T.; and tied with Rutgers.

The following men have shot in two-thirds of the matches or more: V. H. Somers, E. C. Cutting, R. N. Haskell, H. W. Holt, R. O. Snow, F. P. Morrison, T. Heistad, C. W. Wixon, and S. B. Kelly.

Student Organizations Strongly Support Drive

Debating Team Will Meet Michigan A. C April 23

Monday evening at eight o'clock in the chapel, Maine will meet Michigan Agricultural College in the first 24-hour debate ever held at the University of Maine. The two teams will be informed of the subject Sunday evening at eight o'clock, by Librarian Walkley, who will have all available material in two rooms, which the teams will use alternately. Until that hour no one, except Dr. Libby of Colby, who proposed the question, and Mr. Walkley, will know the subject to be debated. The debaters will be allowed the next twenty-four hours in which to work up their side. They will not be allowed to consult their coaches or any other men not in this debate.

The competition for positions on the Maine team was so severe at the try-outs Monday evening that the judges had difficulty making selections. The following men were finally chosen: Howard Wilson, "Prexy" Niles, and Arthur Wilson. Albert Weymouth was selected as alternate. Although the guarantee to be given to the Michigan team is high, the admission charge will be only twenty-five cents.

Phi Kappa Phi Now Has Over 7000 Members

A package of Phi Kappa Phi diplomas recently received by Dean Stevens contained one numbered 7000. This gives a good idea of the expansion of the society from the ten members of the University of Maine, class of 1897, with which it started. The diplomas are signed by the president general, the registrar general, and the president of the local chapter. Dean Stevens has served in some one of these capacities since the establishment of the society, and his name, therefore, appears on every diploma. A number of diplomas subsequently received bring the number to 7045. It is believed that this period of service is longer than that held by any other officer of an honorary college society.

New Social Rules

To clear up all misunderstanding as to the exact text of the new rules passed by the Social Committee, they are published in full as received by the Dormitories and Houses.

March 21, 1923
Your attention is called to the action of the Committee of the Faculty on Social Affairs, March 21, 1923.

Moved that in order to secure the approval of the Committee on Social Affairs for future dances and houseparties, all organizations shall:

First: secure as chaperons for same, faculty members of professorial rank or the wives of professors in the university;
Secondly, serve refreshments in the room where the dancing is held or in some room where supervision is easy.

The committee regards it highly undesirable that participants in house or gym dances leave the dancing floor except to go to the dressing room or to leave the dance.

A copy of this action to be mailed to the Chairman of the Social Affairs Committee of all organizations.

The committee further voted that President Little be requested to write a letter to those eligible to act as chaperons a copy of this action and informing them of their new responsibilities.
April 6, 1923

Your attention is called to the action of the Faculty Committee on Social Affairs of this date.

Moved that the records of the action of this committee of March 21 regarding approval for future dances and houseparties be changed to read:

All organizations shall: First, secure among the chaperons for same a faculty member of professorial rank or the wife of a professor in the university.
April 11, 1923

At a recent joint meeting between the Senate Social Committee and the Faculty Social Committee, the viewpoint was that whereas all organizations desire to cooperate in our action of March 21, some, because of limited space, are

Baseball Squad Unable To Hold Practice Game

In spite of the cold wet weather that has been prevalent over the State this spring the college baseball teams have been working hard for the opening games which will be played Patriot's Day at Waterville and Lewiston. Maine plays Colby while Bowdoin and Bates cross bats at Lewiston.

It has been especially hard for Coach Clark and Capt. Prescott to pick the team which will represent the University of Maine in the opening game for they have been unable as yet to play one practice game, and that means that there probably will not be any before Maine faces Colby Thursday, April 19, 1923.

It is likely that the following men will start the game and probably play the most of it but there are sure to be changes made. The veterans are as follows: Capt. Prescott, catching; Jowett, pitching; Lunge 1st base, Osgood short stop; Stearns 3rd base; Foster left field; King center field with Coney at 2nd base; Dunham right field, as new men. Both Dunham and Coney played with some of the fastest teams in the State last summer and should fill the places of the players that were lost last year in a very able manner. If these players do not live up to their reputation Coach Clark will put in two other players, Cobb at 2nd and Monroe in the field. Probably Jowett will be relieved during the game by either Newell, Repshaw, Thompson or perhaps all will get a chance to try their arm.

Portland Paper Plans Publicity for University

The Portland Sunday Telegram of June 10 will contain a full supplement of twelve pages, telling in complete form all of the events and happenings of the University of Maine, both past and present. In charge of this supplement is a committee, consisting of James A. Gannett, Wayland D. Towner, and A. L. T. Cummings. Material will be furnished by the class in Journalism.

For the past five weeks, the committee and the journalistic class have been hard at work gathering material for this supplement. Nothing that the University has ever achieved will be omitted from its columns. The history of each college will be written by the respective deans. Dr. C. C. Little will give an article on the "Future of the University of Maine."

Other features of interest to every reader will be contained in the publication.

For specific articles, the history of each fraternity will be given, including all honorary and professional societies. The doings of the "Masque"; the work of the various publications; what the Student Government, both of men and women, has done; accounts of the musical clubs; sketches of every coach who was ever at the University; all these serve but as samples of what is going into the "Maine" supplement of The Telegram.

Cuts of each fraternity house, views of the campus, photographs of the heads of departments,—all have their places outlined. In brief, the supplement will be a short history of everything that has ever been done at the University.

Cast Selected for the Two Domino Productions

Final tryouts for the two Domino plays "Joint Owners in Spain" and "The Neighbors" were held in the Library, April 12, at eight o'clock.

Prof. Bailey and Mr. Wallace found much promising material. Many of those trying out have already shown their talent in the Domino plays of last year and in "The Lion and the Mouse." Tentative casts for the two plays were selected as follows:

JOINT OWNERS IN SPAIN
Mrs. Mitchell (matron of an old ladies home)	Miss N. Walker
Miss Dyer	Anna Ashley
Mrs. Fullerton inmates	Mary Friend—
	Mary Harris
Mrs. Blair	Rose Adams

The "M" Club Minstrels Are Splendid Success

On Friday, April 13, the second edition of the greatest Minstrel Show ever staged in the state of Maine was presented to a large audience in the Bangor City Hall. The success of the entire affair proved that the jinx that the day was supposed to bring was decidedly not in evidence.

With the rise of the curtain, a magnificent sight greeted the eye. The sight of the chorus, arranged in tiered rows, and dressed in costumes that amply bespoke the splendor of the Colonial days, was in itself worth the entire price of admission. As the curtain rose the entire chorus joined in on the chorus of Auld Lang Syne with "Bob" Foster leading. The entrance of the end men at this time was very cleverly executed bringing forth rounds of applause from the audience. They not only looked the part they were supposed to fill but acted it very cleverly.

Interspersed among the various musical numbers were various humorous dialogues between the end men and the leader, "Bucky" Thomas, that added much color to the show. The University Quartette was one of the best numbers on the entire program, the members deserving special mention "for the perfect harmony" they achieved without accompaniment.

Other numbers were of equal merit; the soloists, saxophone quartette, dancing specialty, and the reader all filled their parts with exceptional ability.

The grand finale representing "Colonial Days" proved to be a revelation, the historical characters of that period appearing in costumes that well characterized the time they were supposed to represent. To cap the climax the bringing of the mascot Bananas IV across the stage brought the show to a dramatic ending.

Lee Vrooman Speaks On Missionary Service

At the Thursday night meeting in Coburn Hall, Lee Vrooman spoke on Christian Life Service. He told of many of his friends who were in full life service. He has known of college students to give themselves to full life service who did not go to college for that purpose.

Lee proved that service is important for we all know that any business or organization advertises service and that any corporation or person fails without service as a foundation. We often have the wrong idea of life service but Lee made it clear that life service does not mean that we must enter the Ministry, Y. M. C. A. or become a Missionary.

The importance of Christian Service was illustrated by Lee in comparing the prosperity of North America with that of South America. Although South America is older than North America, the latter has advanced and been more prosperous than the former. In the beginning men went to South America seeking gold while they came to North America seeking God. This Christian ideal of North America has gone on and made us a prosperous people.

Arts Rally

The second Arts Rally will be held Saturday evening, April 28, at eight o'clock in the Chapel. The entertainment will be provided by members of the faculty and student body of the Arts College, who will present three one-act plays. The plays are: "Riders to the Sea," by J. M. Syge; "Sham," by Frank E. Tompkins, and "The Finger of God" by Percival Wilde.

All students in the University and other friends of the college are cordially invited. An admission charge of twenty-five cents will be made in order to defray the expenses.

Journalistic Conference

The local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi is attempting something this year that is entirely new in this part of the country in its convention of high school journalists.

This convention, because of the extensive nature of its program, is a big thing for school journalism in Maine. It should do much in interesting students here in that phase of activity and if it continues as an annual affair, as it surely must, will be a big factor in encouraging better journalism in preparatory school circles.

The University of Maine will also reap many benefits thru this project. A large amount of the best kind of publicity will be given this institution when these high school editors and business managers from different sections of the state are given opportunity to visit the Campus and become really acquainted with its people.

Now, cooperation is the one thing needed to place this convention at par value from a standpoint of general value to the college and community as a whole. Hearty cooperation is desired from all college authorities, dormitories, fraternities and student body as a whole.

Maine alumni are now in the midst of their great drive to go over the top in subscriptions to the War Memorial Fund.

It is a pleasure to note that reports from all people who attended the M Club Minstrel Show vouch for the complete success of that production.

When the Maine Masque goes on the road next week with the "Three Live Ghosts" it will play one night in Augusta where all the proceeds of the performance will be devoted to the War Memorial Fund for that city. This fact merely strengthens the inference that might be drawn from incidents in the past, that Maine is fortunate in having such an enterprising alumni body as the Kennebec Valley Association.

Army Air Service Offers Students Opportunities

The Army Air Service is offering an unusual opportunity to the young men of the United States who are interested in the air "game." Those who are eligible for appointment as flying cadets can receive a thorough course of instruction in air service subjects, in addition to a substantial pay allowance while learning.

At the present time the Government is maintaining the Air Service Balloon and Airship School, at Scott Field, Illinois, for the purpose of training flying cadets to become airship pilots. The course of instruction given there is not available anywhere else in the United States. The school has a staff of twenty officers as instructors, and uses four large airships to give the cadets practical flying training.

The present class of cadets will graduate in June, 1923. The next class will begin in September, 1923. Examinations for the next class will be held on the second Tuesday in July at various army posts designated by the War Department.

Enlisted men of the Regular Army and civilians are eligible for appointment as flying cadets.

The candidates must be, at the time of application, unmarried male citizens of the United States, between the ages of twenty and twenty-seven years. They must be high school graduates, or they must possess the equivalent of a high school education. They must be of excellent character, and in excellent health.

The educational examination may be omitted if the applicant presents documentary evidence of his graduation from a high school within two years immediately preceding the date of this examination, or of his attendance at a recognized college or university within that time.

The base pay of flying cadets is seventy-five dollars a month. The ration allowance will not exceed one dollar a day; the other allowances such as clothing, equipment, etc., are those of a private first class, Air Service.

Applicants from civil life will be required to pay all expenses incident to their appearance before the examining board for examination, and no claim for reimbursement of expenses incurred prior to enlistment will be considered.

Application blanks should be obtained at once from the Chief of Air Service, Washington, D. C., and must be submitted in triplicate, accompanied by three letters of recommendation, signed by persons of recognized standing in the community of the applicant.

The term of enlistment of flying cadets is three years, but they are discharged upon completion of, or failure to complete the prescribed course, and are not required to serve the unexpired portion of their enlistment period. The course of training normally requires from nine to fourteen months time.

Flying cadets who successfully complete the prescribed course of training will be commissioned Second Lieutenants in the Air Service Reserve Corps (inactive status), and, upon discharge, receive such travel pay and allowances as are given other enlisted men when discharged from the service.

Further information may be had upon application to the Secretary of Air Service Balloon and Airship School, Scott Field, Belleville, Illinois.

Examinations will also be given for the grade of Second Lieutenant, Regular Army, beginning Monday, June 25, 1923. The examination will be competitive to fill vacancies in the following branches: Air Service, Cavalry, Chemical Warfare, Coast Artillery Corps, Corps of Engineers, Field Artillery, Finance Department, Infantry, Ordnance Department, Quartermaster Corps and Signal Corps.

Anyone wishing further information concerning these examinations may apply at the office of the Military Department in Coburn Hall.

University of Idaho—The Harvard trophy cup has been awarded to the University of Idaho. This cup is given on the basis of singing, yelling, sportsmanship, and the presentation of stunts. Idaho won nine out of twelve points. The school has won a shield presented by the Harvard Club of Spokane for two consecutive years and needed the one victory to annex the cup.

Springfield College—A very active organization at Springfield is the White Arrow Club. The club is composed of fifteen sophomores, whose duty it is to welcome visiting teams, meet them at the station, direct them to the college, show them around, find rooms for them, etc.

Journalistic Fraternity To Hold Conference

The Omega Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, National Journalistic Fraternity, is to hold a convention of two days duration on the Campus for all high and preparatory school journalists of the state of Maine, April 20 and 21. This is the first gathering of its kind to be held in the New England states.

Addresses at this convention will cover all phases of secondary school journalism. The financing of school papers will be given special emphasis. Among the speakers will be A. L. T. Cummings, prominent in state journalism, Dr. Clarence C. Little, Dr. Ellis and Mr. Flewelling of the Faculty, Mr. Paterson of the advertising staff of the Kennebec Journal, and many newspaper editors and journalists.

It is expected that two or more delegates will be present from each high or preparatory school of the state, and as this is the first attempt of the Sigma Delta Chi to put on a conference of this style, it is suggested that students write to the principals of their respective high schools, urging them to send representatives. Those selected will be able to obtain special fare rates on the Maine Central Railroad.

The features of the convention will be the conference banquet held Friday evening, and the reception and dance scheduled for the following evening. An inspection trip will also be made of a modern newspaper office, showing every detail in the production of a newspaper. The complete program of the convention is as follows:

Fine Program Presented At Spanish Club Meeting

The Spanish Club held a combined business and social meeting Tuesday, April 10. Owing to the absence of the president, the vice-president presided.

The roll-call was of a novel nature, each member answered to his name by telling a Spanish joke.

After a short discussion, the club decided to elect their officers for the ensuing year either the last of this month or the first of next month.

The business over, Miss Lawler recited a Spanish poem which was well applauded. Professor Gross of the Spanish department gave a very interesting and instructive account of his travels abroad. He stressed particularly the customs of the Spanish people.

Debating Has Not Been Supported this Winter

Debating on the campus has been a "nigger" commonly speaking, any that have participated in a debate have come in for more or less kidding, good natured, but nevertheless, kidding. We have been very successful this year in debating, even tho we haven't won a debate. We have taken on three of the best debating teams in the country, and are about to have a battle of wits with another, and the debates have been a credit to the University, and to those connected with debating.

A debate is an arrangement whereby three men work their heads off on one subject, and come to know more or less about it. Three other men do the same on the other side of the question, and at a stated time, both appear in the ring, and fight it out. I think that, you who appreciate a good athletic game, will, if you can muster enough ambition for a nonathletic activity, to come to Alumni Hall next Monday night and hear our team meet Michigan. This debate is a very interesting one, from all aspects. It is to be a 24 hour debate, which means that neither team will know what they are going to talk on, until 24 hours before the debate.

Last night the team was selected to represent the University in this debate. The men were chosen for their ability to express their knowledge on any subject, which knowledge was the most extensive on any subject of the students in college. They are the best men in college and are representing the University as such. They are:

Proxy Niles '23, Pete Wilson '23, Howard Wilson '23, and Mr. A. E. Weymouth as alternate.

What do you know about the Ruhr, the World Court, Compulsory Arbitration, Allied Debts, Cabinet Form of Government, Towner Sterling Bill.

You who haven't the time to come out for debating, which in most cases simmers down to the fact that you can't seem to rouse yourselves out of your set, comfortable way of living, to enter into competition with the minds and men of the other colleges, into competition that is keener than any athletic contest ever staged, because it is mental competition, you who say comfortably to yourselves, and as you think, without flattering yourself, "I know darn well I could debate better than so and so," come out and let us show you just how little you really know about the subject. Give yourself 24 hours to work on the question proposed, and then come up to the debate, and imagine you were debating—just give it a try.

You have been asked to support debating all winter, and there were something like 38 in the audience at the last debate.

This debate will be held on the campus, and if you can't afford the time to support the team, will you give yourself half a chance to be shown just how little you really know about debating? Be a sport.

Will Represent Maine Students in Near East

Mr. Lee Vrooman and his wife have departed and will soon start on their trip abroad, where they will be representatives of Maine in Turkey. Many students had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Vrooman and his wife, at Chapel and had the honor of hearing Lee talk about the purpose of their mission abroad. He also told about his experiences in Turkey, four years ago and about the present conditions in that country. He said that Yale college was represented in China and other large colleges were represented elsewhere so he believes it was a fine idea for the University of Maine to take about and, in fact, to financially support such a worthy movement.

Besides talking at the chapel hour, he addressed about sixty students at Coburn Hall Thursday night, at which time he dealt with a very broad scope of such work and gave a most pleasing talk.

Mrs. Vrooman addressed the Young Women's Christian Association, Wednesday night and the girls were much impressed by her sincerity in this work.

Special conferences were arranged with the representatives and the real ideas of Christian work and Christian living were discussed.

Mr. Vrooman stayed at different fraternity houses while on the campus and he told the boys more about the work

Bat: Jim, have you forgotten about that dollar I lent you?

Jim: No, but how can I if you keep reminding me of it all the time.

"Rudolph" Thomas would appreciate the gift of a pair of Valentino pants. The bull on the debaters' posters? The enthusiastic spectators of the Domino rehearsals? The the Senior Mechanicals are wearing black collars? Bananas' new bow? That the Red Flannels are again assembled? The "M" Club's new spring millinery? The new method of "taking" cars in Bangor? The "morning after" effect of the Minstrel Show? The new spring haircuts? That some of our boys are good soloists? That long skirts are returning? That the frats are getting their Victrolas out again? That Burdick is something of a debater? The freshmen shoveling snow for P. T.? Capt. Leighton drilling his company near the Maples? Stackpole as an Indian? That baseball uniforms are again in vogue? That some owners are trying to rush the season with white flannels? That indoor tennis is quite popular at the present? That baseball practice may be seen most anywhere? The "mean harmony" of the University Quartet?

Smoke Talk Is Enjoyed By Chemical Fraternity

A very successful smoker was held by Alpha Chi Sigma, the honorary chemical society, in Aubert Hall, Wednesday evening, April 11. The speakers of the evening were Professor B. F. Brann, E. R. Tobey of the Experiment Station; and R. A. Wilkins. After the speeches the following pledges were announced.

D. F. Thomas '23; A. H. French '23; J. A. Chalmers '24; F. E. Smith '24; T. J. Carlin '24; E. A. O'Connor '24; H. L. Clapp '24; J. S. Andrews '25; R. H. Doughty '25.

"Phoebe" Pearsall was the official chef of the evening and served the refreshments which consisted of coffee, sandwiches, punch, and peanuts.

Alpha Chi Sigma plans to hold their initiation at Newport, April 16.

Occidental Debate

The West met the East in debate at the Bangor City Hall on the evening of March 30, when Occidental College of Los Angeles, was given a decision over the University of Maine on the topic. Resolved: That the United States should adopt a Cabinet-Parliamentary form of Government.

The University of Maine was represented by Theodore Hatch '24 and Howard Wilson '23. Mr. White McGee and Mr. Herbert Sutton composed the team that represented Occidental College.

Dr. Little acted as chairman of the debate. The judges were Mr. Oliver Hall, editor of the Bangor Commercial, Mr. Thomas Clark, Pres. Orono Water Co., and Mr. Charles Reed, Attorney.

The teams were about equally matched in argument, but the Westerner had a much more effective delivery. Mr. McGee was a "fiery" orator of the "old school."

Our team gave a creditable account of themselves and challenged their opponents on several points that were not refuted.

"Nothing in It"

The persistent rumor that a course in the brewing of alcoholic beverages is to be introduced at the University of Maine next year was emphatically denied today by Dean James N. Hart in an interview with a Squeak reporter.

"There's nothing in it," said the Dean, speaking of course, of the rumor. "It is true that the faculty has considered such a step, but it was thought unwise to introduce a practical course at this time."

We Will Know

All those societies desiring the advanced data on the most recent methods of institutional torture, can apply for the abhorred practices at the Squeak office, at least two weeks after the present board faces the inevitable.

Flewelling, Master Molder of Opinions, Will Speak

Among the speakers who will entertain visiting scribes will be H. L. Flewelling, professor of journalism and master of the revs libre. Mr. Flewelling is a modest man, so modest that he would not permit The Squeak to use his picture in this issue. But he has a "message" nevertheless.

The story of his life is an absorbing narrative. Born in an obscure hamlet, and educated largely in the school of hard knocks, his life has been one continuous surmounting of difficulties. And, unlike most self-made men, he is as reticent as a farm hand. The Squeak reporter walked with him all the way from Esabrooke Hall to the gymnasium, and thought nothing of it.

The reporter was received on the mezzanine floor of Esabrooke Hall, and for an hour and a half listened to the dramatic story of his rise from obscurity to the position he now holds.

As the paper is just going to press, it is impossible to record all of the stirring narrative. If the reader is interested in Abraham Lincoln types of greatness, he should make an appointment with the man himself.

Look for a picture in the next issue of the journalist in his bathing suit of lawn green.

Alumni Praise Idea of Journalistic Meeting

Ever since Sigma Delta Chi decided to have a conference of high and preparatory school journalists, President Bryant M. Patten has been deluged with letters from alumni of the University of Maine, all of whom express boundless enthusiasm for the project. Blacksmiths, plumbers, policemen, and other men who have succeeded in life have written assurances of their utmost approval.

Editor Patten Relates History of His Career

The Editor-in-chief of the Campus sat in his sanctum sanctorum with beaming brows. The secretary showed in the reporter of the Squeak, then hastily made his exit before the bottle of ink that the busy man hurried could hit him.

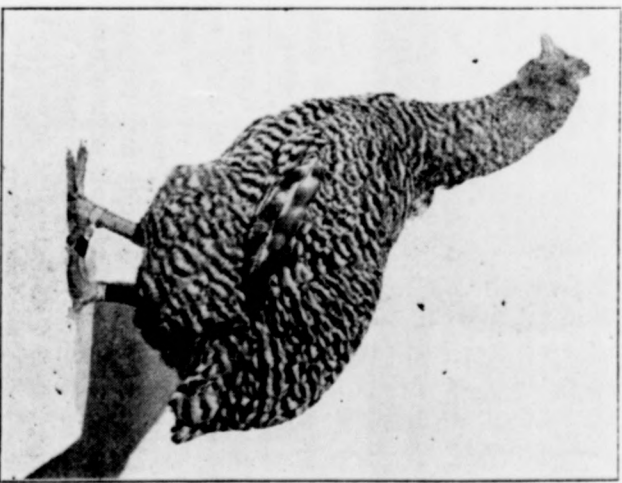

"Sorry to trouble you, Mr. Patten, but I have some very important questions to ask you."

"All right, fire away! I guess I can stand it if you can!"

Royal Welcome Planned for Delegates From Prep Schools

ST. PETER READY

With the conference of prep school journalists about to start at any minute, the campus is in gala attire, just as Bangor is whenever the Chamber of Commerce extends the welcome mat to a notable guest. "We are ready," says St. Peter with his usual difficulty, "bring 'em on."

(St. Peter, if you don't know, has raked leaves and shoveled gravel on the campus ever since Bro. Towner began to allow his personal friends to call him "Pep." And that was a long time ago.)

In Balentine, the co-eds are putting on clean sheets and pillowcases for the visiting literate, and the freshmen in the various fraternity houses have shoveled the snow out of the farm pastures, so that the boys will feel perfectly at home. As a special favor, the Balentine girls have consented to leave the dining room decorations intact until after the banquet. These decorations were put up last January, and were considered very tasteful at that time.

Prof. Caroline Colvin, Dean of Women, has directed that Coburn Hall be opened for reception purposes Friday night. Couples who take advantage of the opportunity are asked not to turn on the lights, as the meter runs up something fierce. If the janitor comes around, it is considered good taste to give him a cigar.

Charles Crowell, proprietor of the B. R. & E., will do all in his power to help the visitors, he says, providing they don't try to steal his slot machine. Charles is susceptible to cigars.

Delegates from towns near the Canadian border are expected to call on Deans Hart and Stevens shortly after arriving, if they have brought along anything to use for snake bites. If there is any left after these conferences, stand in front of Fernald Hall and whistle three times. Then say "Pee-wee weeee" in an indifferent tone of voice. You will have plenty of company.

"Nobody's Business"

"That," said Prof. John Homer Huddleston, when asked by a Squeak reporter if he had any liquor in his cellar, "is none of your business." He added in an undertone that he knew where Scotch whiskey can be bought but that he didn't care to divulge the secret.

"But don't put that in the paper," he said, in concluding the interview.

Editor Patten Relates History of His Career

"Mr. Patten, as representative of the Squeak, I would like to have your life story in as condensed a form as possible. Would you please give some of the interesting anecdotes of your long career on this earth?"

"Oh, with pleasure, with pleasure. Where shall I begin? At my birth? Well, I have forgotten where I was born, but that is immaterial. I started in school at the age of five, being a very precocious child; and developed at a very early age the art of writing. Since then I have done nothing else but write. Oh, once in a while I got mixed up with dramatics, but that does not interfere to any great extent with my career. My life has been tempestuous and I have been tossed here and there by fate, but I can still say that I am young, although old in years."

The reporter's hand was beginning to tire from copying so much and he very gracefully made his exit at this point.

Alumni Praise Idea of Journalistic Meeting

college boy doesn't realize the importance of cultivating a facile style. Sigma Delta Chi is showing the 'old fight,' as Pep Towner used to say."

Solomon Sageclaw, who served a two year sentence in Hamill Hamlin Hall several years ago, writes an encouraging letter from his palatial home on the Hudson. Parts of the communication are too ungrammatical to reprint here, but it is made plain that he is strong for the old school despite the fact that he left by request. He sends a check for a dollar and a half ($1.50), which will be used for the purchase of peanuts.

Compliments of the season have also been received from Maine men at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, and Sing Sing prison, N. Y. These communications can be viewed in President Patten's suite at the Phi Gamma Delta House.

Welcome

The editorial staff of The Squeak extends a cordial welcome to all visiting journalists and invites you all to visit the paper's editorial offices on the fifth floor of Hannibal Hamlin Hall. We are very fond of the ink-slinging clan, especially if they are good looking. Anybody who wishes to subscribe to the paper will please leave the money or merchandise with our wife, who lives in the cellar of Oak Hall.

Is It Right?

The Squeak, like all school and college publications, is dominated by the faculty, just as the average provincial newspaper is dominated by its advertisers. We can't, as the saying goes, say that our soul is our own. But in this issue, for the benefit of the visitors within our gates, we propose to come right out and state our views. Here is some food for thought.

Ground coffee costs thirty-eight cents a pound.

Milk costs ten cents a quart, or fifteen cents a can if you buy it that way.

Sugar costs ten cents a pound.

And yet a cup of coffee at the college bookstore costs ten cents. Is it right?

An instructor in English gave his class a unique examination last January. He told the students to make out a list of ten questions and then answer each one. One senior who couldn't think of any questions wrote all he knew about the subject and then wrote ten questions to fit his subject matter. The instructor flunked him. And as he was riding to Bangor after the eventful Deans' meeting, he was heard to murmur: "Was that right?"

Sigma Delta Chi wanted to get out a supplement in honor of the approaching convention. The members were tired. So they elected four well meaning boys to membership and told them to go to it. Is that right?

In the advertising columns of this issue, The Squeak calls attention to a few of the articles which have been obtained, at great expense, for the forthcoming edition. These features, all of which are written by specialists, are recommended for the perusal of the serious student and man about town alike. The Squeak aims to serve the public.

SILAS SWIGMORE

Noted journalist and patron of husbandry who was scheduled to speak at conference, but will not be able to attend

Just as The Squeak was going to press, word was received from Silas Swigmore, editor of the Sebect Seabright, that he will be unable to attend the first annual conference of High and Preparatory School journalists. This announcement was not greeted with profound regret by members of the Squeak staff, as Editor Swigmore is one of the numerous "men with a message" who visit college campuses during the course of a year. Mr. Swigmore and Editor Patten are alumni of the same Sunday School.

Editor Kneeland Talks on Proper Place of Humor

A Squeak reporter, intent upon ferreting out the truth, invaded the sanctum of Edwin Kneeland at the Phi Eta House last night, and managed to get an interview in the place of humor in the high school paper.

EDWIN KNEELAND

Original apostle of "Pep" who will explain Mamie jokes to visiting journalists

As Mr. Kneeland plans to say a few words on this subject at the convention, it would not be fair to relate in this paper just what he told the representative of the press. However, he made one startling remark, to wit: that the place of humor in the high school paper is "unmistakable." What he meant by it is largely a matter of conjecture, but the reader should have heard him say it. It was most impressive.

The editor of the Mainiac told his visitor about the days when he was a boy, and a member of the editorial staff of a school publication. "We had a comic section that would knock the arc light out of Estabrooke Hall," he said with characteristic modesty.

University Will Not Be Sold

(Exclusive)

"The report that the University is to be sold is absolutely unfounded," is the statement given out to the Squeak reporter early to-day. "Although at one time we did think that it would be necessary to part with this beloved institution, now, however, due to the aid that the state has so willingly and cheerfully given us, we shall keep and cherish more than ever our University," he said.

Upon being asked the price that he thought the University would bring if sold, he pondered a while, then said: "To tell the truth, I have no idea. The repairs to be made on the buildings will cost more than the buildings themselves are worth, so we would have to give them away. One possible buyer has remarked that there is no spirit with which to surround the buildings, so what could we offer him for his money?"

At this point the Dean was interrupted by two students, one of whom desired to get excused from military because of the tooth-ache, while the other said he did not deserve the A he got in Mathematics, and would prefer a B instead. The Dean rapidly countersigned the petitions and continued in a firm voice.

"However, at a recent rally, the spirit of the University showed itself to be so prominent that this afore-mentioned buyer was unable to name a price large enough to buy us out. For which we are not at all sorry, and I have already thrown my black-bordered handkerchief away."

Continuing in the same strain for two hours and twenty-nine minutes, he remarked that he hoped the University would always be as fortunate as it is at the present time in having such a fine student body. "Why, do you realize," he shouted, "that fifty-two years from now most of these children will be gone? What will the University do without them?"

He paused again, drank two tumblers of water, and finally whispered, "Do you think you could find your way out now?" The reporter easily found it.

The University of Engineering

Of all the things that go to make the successful engineer, none is more important, nor more in step with the spirit of the profession, than a studious attitude. One man says about another—"he is always willing to learn," "he doesn't think he knows it all"—and he intends to pay a high compliment when he says it.

The great engineers are always at school, always learning, always seeking for more knowledge. They begin with this desire for fuller understanding, and they keep it up to the end.

Any engineering operation, over and above the primary purpose for which it is carried out, is an active and post-graduate class in engineering, also. So that Westinghouse, or any other great business, is, of its very nature, a University where theory and practice combine to make bigger, broader and more practical engineers.

The courses in this University are not limited to prescribed subjects nor terms—the subjects are almost infinite, and the semesters are endless. Men with the weight of years on their shoulders work and learn side-by-side with those whose day has just dawned.

This post-graduate school fits men for almost anything. Fits them for it, and makes them continually fitter. Out of this continuing fitness have grown the engineering accomplishments on which this institution has grown. It is, perhaps, one of the great educational institutions of its day.

greatest in the world, in numbers—that of Russia.

"India and China are showing a slower growth. But modern ideas are slowly penetrating through those countries, and soon they will be looked up to with greater respect than ever before.

"Turkey has brought England and France to their knees. She is the political head of the Moslem world, and wields tremendous prestige. But she is hard up for cash and welcomes the efforts of America.

"Conditions have been so changed, and the population so shifted, that reconstructive work has got to be entirely replanned. The Student Fellowship Board has no definite plans at present, but it hopes to offer tangible solutions of the situation at a later date. Yale-China began on a small scale at first, and so must we. It is a hard situation, but I am sure the University of Maine will live up to the state motto, "I lead," not in numbers, but in the type of work done. For it is only this kind of Christian progress which will solve the old question started by old Sargon."

We all know that education is important today but Lee believes that the Church of Jesus Christ is the only institution which has moulded the biggest and best characters of today. Lee's argument for entering the Ministry was the freedom which it offers. He believes that it is the only profession in which one may freely express his ideas. In forming opinions of the church Lee stated that it is unjust to judge the whole Church of Christ by your home church. In closing his talk, Lee challenged any to give their life to full time Christian Service.

What do they mean "Senior Wrangler"?

YOU may not have met one of those dear old boys,—Oxonian stuff, what, what?—but our idea of a senior wrangler is a '23 man trying to work up a lather with the wrong kind of shaving cream.

There's no "wrangling" necessary to get a lather with Williams' Shaving Cream. Squeeze out a spendthrift's dab or a tightwad's dab—it's all the same. Either way you get a big, efficient lather that softens the beard right down to the base of every hair.

And best of all, this big Williams' lather has a decidedly beneficial effect on your skin. No complexion soap could do more for you than Williams' does every time you shave. Get a tube of Williams' today and begin giving your face this helpful care.
