PRES. BOARDMAN ANNOUNCES NEW SCHOLARSHIPS FOR TECH STUDENTS

Three Awards of About $150 Will Be Made from $6,000 Fund, Created by Stone and Webster Company in Memory of the Late Francis J. Hovey

President Harold S. Boardman this week announced a new fund of $6,000 the income of which is to be used for scholarships known as the Francis S. Hovey Fund.

The income of the $6,000 fund is to be used for scholarships to male students only in undergraduate work in the College of Technology, and the award is to be based upon character as well as scholarship.

This year three scholarships of approximately $150 each will be awarded to College of Technology students under the Hovey Memorial Scholarship Fund which has been permanently allocated by the Stone & Webster Corporation to the University of Maine.

Candidates for these scholarships should present themselves at the office of the Dean of the College at 2.00 P.M., December 9, for an interview.

Francis J. Hovey, for 21 years a member of the organization of Stone and Webster Company of Boston, died January 30, 1921, at the age of 69 years. He graduated from Harvard University in the class of 1873. He was the most widely known man in the organization of Stone and Webster and was a counselor and friend to all with whom he came in contact.

The fund was created in 1923 from contributions made by the firm of Stone & Webster and members of the organization in various parts of the country. A board of three trustees has administered the Memorial Fund for seven years and during this time two beneficiaries have graduated from the University of Maine.

THE "MAINE REVIEW" IS NEW MAGAZINE TO BE PUBLISHED AFTER XMAS

The first issue of a new student publication, "The Maine Review," will appear on the campus directly after the Christmas vacation. Since "The Maine-Spring" will not be published this year, there seems to be special need for a magazine to represent adequately the interests of the four colleges of the University. "The Maine Review" will be a quarterly, and is planned to include book reviews, dramatic criticisms, humor, articles—written in non-technical style—on new developments in the natural and social sciences, as well as short stories, essays, and poetry.

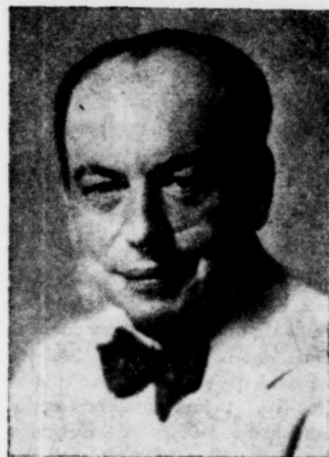

The staff will be glad to receive any work of this nature, to answer inquiries, or to give suggestions for acceptable material. Communications may be addressed to "The Maine Review," Box 5, and put into the box for campus mail in Alumni Hall. Further announcements concerning the members of the staff and the contents of the first number, will appear in the next issue of the Campus.

Hartwell & Son of Boston, and the Old Colony Trust Company, also of Boston.

The American Legion of Bar Harbor claims Mr. McKown as a member. He is also a member of the University Club, Boston, a member of the Bar Harbor Golf Club, was active in Boy Scout work in Wellesley, Massachusetts, and was also a member of the Wellesley Golf Club.

Dr. Ernst Jackh

German Politics To Be Monday's Chapel Topic

Dr. Ernst Jackh, Speaker, Has Been A Member of 4 Peace Delegations And Started 3 Organizations

Dr. Ernst Jackh of Germany will be the speaker at Chapel next Monday morning. Dr. Jackh was formerly a professor at the Oriental Seminar of the University of Berlin, and is the founder and leader of three important organizations in Berlin for the study of political and social questions which have come into existence since the close of the Great War, the Hochschule für Politik, the German League of Nations Union, and the Peace Academy.

Dr. Jackh is entirely conversant with the German political situation. He was a member of the German delegations to Versailles, Genoa, Locarno, and Geneva; during the war he was sent on several important missions, and since the war, as the personal friend of Presidents Ebert and Hindenburg and of Foreign Ministers Stresemann and Curtius, he has been in very close touch with all the political events in Germany. He also knows well the leading non-German statesmen of Europe. Dr. Jackh was educated at the Theological Seminary of Maulbronn and at the Universities of Heidelberg, Geneva, Breslau and Munich. He is the author of numerous books.

WINTER SPORTS RANKED AS VARSITY SPORT NOW

Winter Sports, for several seasons identified with the Maine Outing Club, was at the last meeting of the Athletic Board named as a varsity sport. Leif Sorenson has been chosen manager for this winter.

In making this a minor varsity sport at Maine, recognition is given to the increased interest in the sport and to the marked success of the team representing Maine last year. Maine won the state meet by a 49 to 17 margin over Bates last season and with all but two men back for this year's competition it is expected that the team will again be victorious. Ted Curtis is the coach and it is in large measure because of his assistance and support that winter sports is now enjoying the activity that it is. On this winter's schedule is the state meet to be held at Orono, a dual meet with Bates at Lewiston, and in addition the Lake Placid meet to which probably six men will go. Also Maine may be represented at meets to be sponsored by Dartmouth and New Hampshire.

The ranking which winter sports now will enjoy is the climax of several seasons of constructive effort. Previous to last year Maine had failed to win a state meet since 1923. The Intramural Association controlled the sport until 1927 when it was taken over by the Maine Outing Club. The fact that winter sports is now a varsity sport does not do away with this club now, but it will continue to function in arousing interest in winter sporting activities and in a social way. The Maine letter, a "wms" will again be awarded to members of the team this season.

FIVE MADE DELEGATES

Maine Will Be Represented At N.E. Student-Faculty Conference

The University of Maine will be represented by five delegates to the annual New England Student-Faculty Conference to be held this week-end at East Northfield, Mass.

The general theme for the conference this year is "The Responsibility of the Academic World to Contemporary Civilization." Discussion will center around the question as to whether the colleges of this country are preparing the students merely to adjust themselves to contemporary standards in social life, industry, and the professions, or are rather exploring the possibility of better ways of living together.

Features of campus life which may stand in the way of the accomplishment of this second purpose will be critically examined and an effort made to discover means through which contact with the larger world of affairs can be made without impairing the effectiveness of the colleges in their primary aims.

These, and similar questions will be examined both by authoritative speakers and discussion groups, and it is hoped that as a result some clear conclusions can be reached as to means of promoting in the colleges generally, close, friendly, and profitable contact between students and instructors.

The delegates from the University of Maine are: Miss Edith Wilson, Miss Ethne Worcester, '33, Howard W. Stevens, '34, Professor Ronald B. Levinson, and Mr. Cecil G. Fielder.

Allison's House To Be Presented Next Week

By SYLVIA L. HICKSON

"Allison's House," the well known three act character play of Susan Glaspell, has been chosen as the second Masque play of the year, and will be presented in Alumni Hall December 10. This selection was the Pulitzer Prize winner in drama for the season of 1930-31, and was cited by the judges as "the original American play which shall best represent the educational power and value of the stage. It was produced by Eva LeGallienne at the Civic Repertory Theatre in New York on December 1, 1930.

The play is an absorbing story with a great deal of human interest centering around the family of Allison Stanhope, a famous American poetess, who has been dead eighteen years. The action takes place on December 31, 1899, in the Stanhope home in Iowa. This place, Allison's old home, is rich in memory and sentiment and is to be sold.

Allison's sister Agatha, her brother, and her brother's family gather in the old homestead to make their last farewell, and to divide among themselves the many precious belongings which have been so well preserved by the elderly Agatha.

THORNE '34 IS INJURED

Leg Fractured in Motorcycle Crash Near Phi Kappa Sigma

Raymond Thorne, '34, Alpha Tau Omega, was injured in a motorcycle accident two weeks ago today, when he suffered a compound fracture of the leg and cuts about the face as he collided with a slowly moving car near the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity house. He was taken care of by fraternity students and later taken to the Eastern Maine General Hospital in Bangor.

The accident occurred at about 7.30 on the evening of November 19. An old Auburn roadster owned by Jerome Michaud of Old Town had stopped on its way north near the Phi Kappa Sigma house. The car was out of gas and was being pushed along by Michaud and his companions. As Thorne came along in the same direction, an automobile going towards Orono passed Michaud's car. Thorne, naturally on the right side of the road, and not seeing the Auburn as it had no tail light, crashed directly into it. He was of course thrown off, and the front wheel of his motorcycle was bent up double against the rear of Michaud's car. Witnesses immediately rushed to the scene to help. Thorne was taken to the Bangor hospital, from which he returned to his home in St. Albans, on Wednesday, November 25. It is thought that he will be able to return to college soon after the Christmas vacation.

The case was tried in the Orono Trial Justice Court the night following the accident, and Michaud was convicted of driving a car without its being duly registered. The case is now pending in court.

"Speed" Sherman After His Chat With The Owls Last Week

Owls Again Try Hands At Tonsorial Artistry

Wisemen of 1934 Mete Out Penalty To Dangerous Freshman Criminal Who Took Co-ed to Theatre

Charged with breaking the Freshman rules as revised last May by the Senior Skull Society, "Speed" Sherman received the customary haircut punishment when he appeared before the Sophomore Owls at a meeting held Tuesday evening, November 24.

Sherman, however, was not the only member of the class of 1935 to be entertained by the Wise Old Owls at this meeting. Three or four other freshmen, who were unfortunate enough to be caught without hats or matches were also brought before the august members of the class of '34.

Nor was the haircut the only punishment meted out to Sherman. Arraigned on more than one charge he first received the customary punishment wherein the baseball playing members of the Owl Society get a little batting practice when the luckless frosh is ordered to "assume the angle." He was spanked.

Next the Owls took shears and proceeded to collect platinum locks for their "M" books, much to the embarrassment of their helpless victim. Finally the alleged law breaker was ordered to appear on the campus hatless until Christmas.

GLIDER CLUB PLANS TO PURCHASE WACO SHIP

A meeting of glider fans was held Tuesday evening, Nov. 24, in the M.C.A. building. About twenty-five men were present, most of them freshmen. The general prospects of gliding this winter were discussed, and another meeting was called for next Tuesday evening, December 8, in the M.C.A. building. The club plans to reorganize this year, and officers will be elected at next Tuesday's meeting. Also at that meeting, it will be definitely decided as to buying a glider. A Waco training glider is now contemplated, and if the plans materialize a glider will be here soon after the Christmas vacation. As the membership of the club will probably be limited, all interested should apply right off. More upper classmen are desired and will be welcomed at next Tuesday's meeting.

Several speakers from various aviation points throughout the state have consented to talk at club meetings this winter. All of these speakers are men who are intensely interested in aviation, and gliding, its offspring, and will be well worth hearing. As the plans are now, if each club entrant pays about five dollars, a glider can be purchased and actual flying started soon after Christmas. There are several good places to glide from on campus, and after each member has a little instruction, theoretical and practical, gliding will start in earnest.

With the final nominations for senior, junior and sophomore class elections completed this week, all upper class elections will be held next Wednesday. With the influence of the northern and southern leagues still apparently felt, both groups have nearly an equal number of candidates in the field. Walter Riley, president of the class of 1932 for the past two years, is not a candidate for re-election. Everett Gunning, Alpha Tau Omega, defeated candidate for the office last year, has again been nominated. He will be opposed by Milton Sims, Beta Theta Pi.

Sam Calderwood will again serve as president of the class of 1933, no candidate being nominated to run against him.

The complete list of nominees is as follows:

SENIORS— President: Everett Gunning, Milton Sims; vice-president: John Moore, Amel Kiszonak; secretary: Sylvia Hickson, Helen Stearns; treasurer: John Dickson, Albert Smith; executive committee: John McGowan, Margaret Burrill, Atwood Levassaler, Hartley Crowe, Leon Spurling, Austin Beechler, Robert Shean, Orestes Rumazza; Commencement ball committee: Anthony Gatti, Lawrence Huot, Maynard Hincks, Winthrop Libby, Neil Calderwood, Doris Baker, and Gordon Hayes; Commencement week committee: Wallace Humphreys, Winston Robbins, Holland Loane, Frank Battles, Evelyn Randall, Herbert Trask, and Keith Percival; Cane committee: Louise Beaulieu, Alden Denaco, Lovell Chase, Francis Ricker, Raymond Smith, Donald Lester, Ronald Austin.

CHAPEL PROGRAMS FOR REMAINDER OF SEMESTER OFFER UNUSUAL VARIETY

By RUTH WALENTA

The assembly programs for the next four weeks are planned to suit a wide variety of tastes.

Next week Dr. Ernest Jackh, of Germany, formerly professor at the Oriental Seminar at the University of Berlin, and now leader of three important organizations for the study of political and social problems, will speak on "European and German Problems."

On December 14 there will be three speakers: Dean Lee Vrooman, Maine '18, Dean of International College, Smyrna, Turkey; Mrs. Helen Stuart Vrooman, Maine '18; and Fred Thompson, Maine '28. These three Maine graduates are home on furlough from their work in Turkey, and will speak about this work at chapel.

Mrs. Delia Akeley, wife of Carl Akeley, will give an illustrated lecture, "Big Game Hunting in Africa," January 11. Mrs. Akeley is well known as a big game hunter, explorer, and scientist. She has made four trips to Africa, and is co-author, with her husband, of several books on Africa.

At the last assembly of the fall semester, Professor Mark Bailey, of the University, well known through his work with the Maine Masque, will give a reading.

Corbett Hurt in Track Practice

Don Corbett, secretary of the Sophomore Owls and letter man in cross country, was painfully injured late yesterday afternoon when he was struck in the arm by a javelin while at track practice on the indoor field. He was rendered unconscious for a few minutes, and was then taken to the infirmary where he received medical treatment. It is thought that the injury will prevent his running in the Freshman-Sophomore track meet Saturday afternoon.

NEW ELIGIBILITY RULES

It might be well to call attention to the fact that the eligibility rules for holding extra-curricular offices have been changed during the past year. Under the previous system the offices were divided into four classes. A student could not hold more offices than were in any one of these groups. For instance, one could hold but one first class position. The editorship of the Campus or Prism, for example, are first class offices. The second group allowed one to hold two second class offices at the same time. The third and fourth classes were along the same line. Scholars who averaged 3.000 or better could hold an unlimited number of offices at the same time. Under the present ruling, however, the Dean of the College and the Dean of Men or Women control the offices. If, in their opinion, a student is neglecting his subjects on account of his numerous positions, he will be asked to resign from certain of them. This new system appears to be a decided improvement over the old system, as it allows more freedom of judgment in accordance with the circumstances.

WORTH SEEING

Those who heard Señor Luis Cabrera sing several popular Spanish and English songs over the radio last Sunday night were given a sample of the program to be expected at the fourth annual Spanish Night operetta, to be given in Alumni Hall tonight.

Since coming to Maine in the fall of 1928, Señor Cabrera has worked tirelessly in the interests of the Spanish Club. The first Spanish Night to be held on this campus was produced that fall, coached entirely by Señor Cabrera, and was accorded such an enthusiastic reception that it has become an annual event.

Highly entertaining though this production is, this is by no means its only function. The historic costumes, the native Spanish songs, and the dramatic interpretation of Spanish life serves to portray the life of that country far more effectively than could a dozen academic courses.

Señor Cabrera, the writer of this year's presentation, Cielito Lindo, has already proven his skill in this direction. Past Spanish Nights have been successful, and the present indications are that the operetta to be given tonight will be as entertaining and as valuable as have been those of the past. It is deserving of a large attendance.

TRACK

The winter track season is fast approaching. Now that the football season is terminated many will work out for positions on the indoor team. As there are three big meets in the current year, there should be a stimulation of interest along these lines. Dartmouth meets Maine here. This should be an incentive to prospects not already working out. There has been much good material lost through graduation in the past two years and although there is still a nucleus, there are places in many events which should be filled. Track has always held a position of note and prominence in the course of athletics at Maine and in order to keep this standard there must be a large group of promising prospects.

In track there is as much if not more opportunity for good fellowship and personal physical benefit than almost any other sport offered here. There is now a fine chance, with the Intramurals and Christmas Handicaps a short way off, to endeavor to attain a position of some sort on the respective fraternity, group, or individual teams. Get out and train, let us have some outside activity in conjunction with our daily scholastic work. You will benefit, individually.

The final report of the local Red Cross Drive, which closed here on Thanksgiving, shows that the goal which had been previously set was surpassed by almost fifty percent. It is gratifying to find that University of Maine students are willing to contribute generously, even during times of financial depression. This ready response is particularly noteworthy at this time, since it is the first occasion on which University students have been asked to contribute to a Red Cross Drive.

Correspondence

Dear Editor:

I have just finished a reading of the opening article in the December issue of the Atlantic Monthly. I would say that I am not a devotee of the Mencken-Nathan School of Debunking, but as a plain student interested in plain and proper living, on this campus as elsewhere, this essay has certainly "hit me right". I grant to those who read it that it may possibly be exaggerated in some of its indictments, yet it possesses a surprisingly true ring. Near the close of the constructive case against "introverted patriotism" Mr. Calkins takes a vigorous slap at our old friend, compulsory military training in colleges. He is speaking of our "super-patriots" when he says:

"Compulsory military drill in colleges is one of their methods. It is refreshing to observe signs of rebellion. Cornell, where the first unit was established, has been compelled to revoke the compulsory feature. Without it, military drill will disappear exactly as chapel does when the obligation to attend is removed. Ohio State University, which has the largest unit, is engaged in a fight right now which can have but one outcome, for the youth of today are wiser than my generation.

The ostensible purpose is preparedness but the real reason is propaganda, to keep the young in line by dangling the military trappings before them. A uniform is potent. It is said that many negroes will work for nothing as doormen if only the uniform is gorgeous enough. Each successive generation of youth of military age holds in its hands the fate of war. If the youth of the world refuse to fight, there will be no wars."

Men of Maine, I appeal to that portion of your intellectual natures which liberality, fair play, and decency have ever nourished. I appeal to those parts of your realms of thought and action which this University has ever pledged itself to stimulate, and cherish, as its peculiar task in your development of worthwhile character. Is this constant boning and memorizing of the military text, is this ludicrous shuffling about of a Saturday morning in the Armory, in uncompromising accordance with the deepest and truest strains of your struggling characters? That is a question of searching earnestness for every freshman and sophomore! It must be yes or no in answer.

Does some one say "why persist in writing letters anonymously to the Campus—come out in the open and be heard above board like a man"? Ah, very well, gentlemen, but kindly remember that we are treating a vital principle, a significant issue, fraught with logic and emotion, too. Personalities afford too good an opportunity for the military-minded to sidetrack the true import of the situation. The past few years at Maine have shown in two cases at least what a man may expect who drags his name into the "bloody business."

A word, and then I am done for now. I take this opportunity to extend a challenge to those men, (and it almost seems women, too) who are avowedly in favor of compulsory military training at Maine, to a "laying of the cards face-up on the table." I challenge you people to bring forward your justifications of the present situation in the form of reason, truth, and equity for all. I cannot see the necessity for personalities at all, and hope your acceptance may be anonymous in order to insure a wholesome airing of the matter. Through the medium of this column I await your first reply to this letter with the sincere desire that every freshman and sophomore, at least, may be permitted to apply "intellectual honesty," if you will, to this thing apparently foisted upon them by a silent paternalism!

The Non-Resistant who Awaits

Editor of the Campus,

The Maine custom of electing an honorary colonel is difficult to defend. On the other hand, the worth of other old customs Frosh Rules, Pan-Hel, M.C.A. drives, our observance of Armistice Day or the panning of "crabbers" is easily upheld.

The precedents of style established by "sideliner," "chuckler," and "non-resistant" in their broadsides are copied herein only in order that this article may be easily understood by those gentlemen authors, and is not to be taken by the public at large as an insult to its intelligence.

In the first place, if we had a league of men not old women, the wars of the present would be abolished. In the second place, if there was a revision of our ideas of sovereignty, a reforming of states to make a Super-State governed by an international police force—this world would be at peace. In the third place, if the voters would back the Legion's Act to conscript wealth as well as men in the wars, we could put the brakes to warfare. According to "non-resistant" conscientious objecting would stop War. Yeah, I tried that when I was a kid—oh papa, where's that shoebrush?

Wealth, industry, commercialism have caused more wars in the past than you or the rest of the tribe can shake a stick at. If you can stop these men, you can stop war.

Why not get down to earth and back some real movements instead of living in a dreamland full of pretty toys? Get a duster and clean out the cobwebs—Utopia died with Sir Thomas More.

Toilstoi was a great man, yet his countrymen, ruled by the Soviet care nothing for Christ or His teachings. Force, to them, works better than non-resistance. Ghandi is a remarkable man but where is the freedom of India, federated, prosperous, educated India? Wm. L. Garrison believed in Ghandianism but would "non-resistant" have said that in 1861 slavery could have been abolished by non-resistance? When Japan defies the League, when Soviet Russia has the boil of communism, when Hungary wants territory, when France grinds out troops, when the Reich stirs with unrest, when the Balkans are grumbling, when the Polish Corridor pricks Prussia, when the Saar is still a sore spot, when Roumania hates Russia, when Italy Italianizes the German Alps—the fact that these things are going on only serves to prove that human nature hasn't changed fundamentally since the time of Charles the Fifth.

What have European troubles to do with us? Remember 1917.

As long as you have world unrest you can't disarm no matter how much you froth at the mouth or strew the world with lilies.

No Englishman or American wants a standing army; it is a tax burden and a bother—but we do need a trained citizenry who know how to fight.

law violation?

Will murder cease if the murder laws are wiped from the books?

You can't do away with armies in order to bring on peace.

Speaking of the humble R.O.T.C.—that is no force worth throwing against an invading army, but it surely is a nucleus for the further training of men that can stop a breach.

If you must howl against required courses, why not jabber about P.T. or a few others that are really useless?

It is queer—but people seem to think that the military-minded person is one who has dreamed too long on swashbuckling knights and fair dames—quite the contrary. In time of War who goes first—why, the ones who have been trained.

If you think that I relish going out to have my skin punctured for the joy of it—you're barking the wrong tree. I've seen the execution that machine guns will do to a plank target—catch me walking into that gun fire to be heroic.

There is just this—if someone shoots at me—I crave to know how to shoot at him. Strange as it might seem, I'd rather the other fellow died.

When this world can disarm all together, when there are no "outside" powers, when you can absolutely depend on the word of your neighbor, then can the world be at peace, no more arms or frightful generals, no more R.O.T.C. elections to scare "sideliner" out of his wits, if any.

The pacifist—the man with any price—is the dreamer who "knows more and more about less and less until he becomes mentally cracked."

Little rays of sunshine, bless 'em, we need 'em....And bye the bye, for some unexplained reason the Brute no longer travels to Bangor every week-end and to Colvin every night. Maybe he's taking the right course, but methinketh he is losing some excellent repasts....What means all this undue activity centered about Balentine's heretofore peaceful flag-pole? One day, red pajamas flying aloft, the next a sheet fluttering in the breeze, bearing a friendly greeting to the Owls! Speaking of said night birds, haven't they been doing a heavy bit o' speeding lately? And speaking of Balentine again, there was a great conflagration there the other night and Fire Chief Dickson went forth and wielded his mighty fire ax most stoutly and all the hysterical fair ones were saved....The Spirit of '35 waxeth valorous and riseth up in arms against '34 on ye 5th day of December, year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-one. They hold a tournament and challenge said '34 to combat in the Armory. Many a sweet and shrill feminine voice will be lifted up in their behalf as the battle increaseth in fury and gore. And in the evening lo, they become gallant and escort fair damsels to a dance in that great and formidable fortress, Hannibal Mamlinburg. What chance has the "four hundred" against such social rivals? Their little affair sort of fades in the background....Reports from the foresters up in the wilderness have it that Eddie Hawes is leading in the beard-producing contest....I just casually mentioned Thanksgiving to one greenish-white individual and—I never will again. I don't dare mention Christmas either—you can't tell how people feel about those things. Ranks is a dangerous subject, too. Here's for tact!

JUNIORS WIN 5 OUT OF 6 HOCKEY GAMES PLAYED

The Junior class hockey team came through with flying colors, winning five and tying one out of the six games played. The first game with the Seniors produced a tie with the score four to four. This was the game which proved that class team spirit and cooperation were far superior to that of the intergroup teams, and warranted the adoption of the former grouping.

The Juniors won the other five games by decisive scores. The total Junior score of the five games was 37, as against the total score of 4 offered by the Freshman, Sophomore, and Senior teams together.

Marnie Smith was outstanding, making seventeen of the total number of goals. Polly Brown came next with a total of five. Blanche Henry in the position of right half deserves special mention. The entire team, however, should be complimented for its excellent work.

Those playing on the Junior team were: E. West, M. Moulton, M. Smith, M. Dunn, B. Henry, M. Hanaburgh, E. Thompson, M. Carter, M. Whitmore, M. Dickson, P. Brown and P. Webber.

The following articles have been brought to the Registrar's office and will be returned upon identification: A black Waterman's fountain pen; a gold eversharp pencil; a dark green slip-on sweater; a pink and blue silk scarf; a pair of black kid gloves with straps; a white athletic jersey; an Eastern Star compact.

Spanish Club Operetta Will Be Given Tonight

Madrid, Spain, Feb. 29.—Señor Cabrera's fourth annual Spanish Club play will be presented tonight in Alumni Hall, with a cast of approximately seventy-five people. The operetta chosen for this year's performance is "Cielito Lindo," written by Señor Cabrera. Special songs and dances will be interspersed at intervals in the plot of the play.

The action takes place around the life of Belia, a young Spanish girl, who is adopted by Carlos, her half-brother. Later these two fall in love with each other, but keep their emotions to themselves. A false report reaches Belia to the effect that Carlos is to marry another woman, and in order to forget her love for him she consents to marry a man whom she does not love. Around this episode the complications pile up, until eventually the situation is relieved by the traditional happy ending.

Dorothy Sawyer, Ruth Hamor, Frances Pascarelli, Llewellyn Stearns, Helen Findlay, Luthan Crosby, Carleton Hayes, Dorothea Greene, John Stinchfield, Charles Striffen, and George Solomon take active parts in the presentation, and Señor Cabrera himself will sing La Paloma.

Roger Clapp and Douglas Beale attended the Cumberland County Flower Show in Portland, November 16 to 20. The Department of Horticulture had an exhibit at this show.

FROSH GET CHANCE TO WIN THEIR FREEDOM FROM RULES SATURDAY

Early Check-up Gives Both Classes Equal Bid for Victory.
Sophs Have Edge in Dashes While Thirty-fivers Look Stronger in Long Distances

By Sherwin Stanley

The Freshman-Sophomore Track Meet will be held in the Indoor Field this coming Saturday afternoon. The meet, which has provided some keen competition in the past, is due to be one of the most closely contested in years. If the underclassmen win, Freshman rules will go off at once. Several indoor records hang in the balance also as the Sophs who won this athletic event last year, fight it out with a Frosh team which has great potentialities.

The second year men are supposed to have an advantage in the dashes and hurdles with Floring who garnered 13 points in these events last year representing them, as well as Parsons and Dougherty. The first year men have, however, a capable sextet in Hall, McBride, Malaney, Morgan, Cole, and Littlefield.

The longer distance running should be especially interesting with such performers as Drummond, Black, Sleeper, and Saunders on foot for the Freshmen pitted against such Soph runners as Osgood, Earl, Corbett, or Folsom. In the 440, Hildreth and O'Connell appear to have the edge on Goddard and McGinley of the Frosh. On the other hand, Sleeper, Shay, Stevens, and Haley perhaps have an advantage over the Sophomore high jumpers, Favor and Crandall, as have Urbank and Gross in their department—the pole vault.

It is in the shot put, discus, and hammer events that things may or may not happen. Last year Favor was all-important in these events. However, if Files is able to perform for the Frosh, there may be a different story. Rogers, Hill, and Cobb will try to help the cause of the second year men, while Dawson strives on the other side of the fence. There is a probability that the hammer throwing will be omitted. Haley and Captain throw the javelin to give the Freshmen a possible edge over Favor, Aldrich, or Marson. The broad jump might be labeled as "x."

FOOTBALL TEAM PICKS MILT SIMS AS CAPTAIN

James Milton Sims, regular halfback on the varsity football team for the past three years was elected captain of the team at a meeting of the lettermen last week. Under the new policy now in effect, the football captain is elected after the season has closed.

Sims is a senior and has been one of the outstanding backs on the varsity team for three years. Defensively and as a blocking back, Sims was considered one of the best in the state.

Acting as captain, Sims guided the team through the States Series to the Maine State Championship this year and well merits the honor of being elected captain of the first undisputed championship team to come to Maine since 1926.

"You needn't tell me
—I know Camel is the fresh cigarette!"

FRESHNESS
— that's the thing!
CAMELS are never parched or toasted

HAVE you noticed the new trend in cigarettes?—
freshness is the popular thing.

That's because a fresh cigarette, as demonstrated by Camels, is something smokers have discovered as better than anything they ever tried before.

Camels are fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack because they're made fresh to start with — blended of choice, delicately mild, sun-ripened tobaccos in which the natural moisture and fragrant flavors are vigilantly safeguarded.

The tobaccos in Camels are never parched or toasted — the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we say with so much assurance that Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh — not parched or toasted — and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

Try Camels' freshness for a change. Switch over for just one day, then change back — if you can.

Made FRESH — Kept FRESH

Don't remove the moisture-proof wrapping from your package of Camels after you open it. The Camel Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs.
