

W. R. FARRINGTON '91 PASSES IN HONOLULU HAD HEART TROUBLE

Was Born in Mount Vernon,
Served 8 Year Term as Governor of Hawaii

Hon. Wallace R. Farrington '91, for eight years Governor of Hawaii and for many years president and publisher of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, died of heart disease in a Honolulu Hospital Friday morning of last week. Ex-Governor Farrington had been ill for some time prior to his death.

He served two terms as governor of Hawaii, being appointed by Presidents Harding and Coolidge. At the end of his last term, in 1929, he resumed his journalistic work as president and publisher of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin. In 1931 he returned to the University of Maine to deliver the commencement address to the graduating class of that year.

The death of Governor Farrington closes two romantic chapters in the history of the University of Maine, for he was born in the late seventies in Mount Vernon, which until its destruction by fire last June had been the oldest building on the campus of the University.

Graduating from Maine in 1891, he began his journalistic career with the Phelps Publishing Company of Springfield, Mass. In 1892, when he heard of a position on the Honolulu Advertiser he applied for it, but was refused.

With two other young men, he then moved to Bath and started a paper there, but after getting it well under way was offered the position in Hawaii, so he left Maine for the Pacific. In 1897 he returned to the continent and became one of the first reporters on the old New York Commercial, but a year later he returned to the South Seas. He bought a half interest in the Evening Bulletin and after fifteen years consolidated it with the Hawaii Star. That paper is today one of the most important papers in American journalism.

MAINE GETS FIRST SCORE ON YALE IN HISTORY CREATING BIGGEST EASTERN GRIDIRON UPSET

Our Mistake

The Maine Campus made a mistake and admits it. It made a mistake in its judgment of the interest of the students of the University of Maine in their football team, a team that scored on mighty Yale for the first time since the two teams have been playing.

The mistake was that the Campus thought that at least four hundred students would care to hear a play by play description of the game as it was going on. Acting on this assumption, the Campus undertook to present such a description by telephone, at a cost such that it would require four hundred admissions to pay for it.

Since only fifty attended, it becomes necessary this week and next week to lower the Campus standard of journalism by printing an excess of advertising. The Campus regrets this necessity, but the cost of the football game project must be met. We thank those who did attend for their cooperation, and are sorry that the paper must contain so little news.

Since the merchants have cooperated with the Campus in making up this deficit, it is fitting and courteous that Maine students should patronize them.

CAMP JORDAN SCENE OF M.C.A. RETREAT

Henson Leads Discussion of Social Questions. One
Man Lost on Island

The M.C.A. retreated to Camp Jordan Saturday and Sunday, October 7 and 8. Francis A. Henson, prominent religious and social leader, was the special speaker.

On Saturday evening Mr. Henson spoke about the changes in economics and social life in Soviet Russia.

Sunday morning Paul Langlois led a short worship service in which Phyllis Johnson sang a solo and Professor Jackman gave a brief talk on what religion meant to him. After a short recess Mr. Henson gave an analysis of the recent changes in economic life in America as a result of his trip as a member of the Travelling Economic Seminar of National Religion and Labor Foundation. Sunday afternoon his topic for discussion was "Religion and Social Change."

Saturday evening an unfortunate incident occurred. Frank Lindenberg '37 got stranded on a small island when the canoe, which he had taken out alone, became unmanageable in the strong wind. When his prolonged absence from the party became noticed, a searching party was formed, and a bonfire was built on the shore to guide him. He was found by some searchers in a canoe and brought safely back to the camp where he put on dry clothes and soon was able to join the rest of the party.

Members of the faculty present at the retreat were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Fielder, Miss Elizabeth Ring, Professor Henry G. Stetler, Professor Ernest Jackman, Dean and Mrs. James Muilenburg, Jr., Himy Kirshen, Mr. Max Guyer.

Debaters Organizing Teams for '34 Season

The University of Maine debating society, at a meeting last night, elected officers for the year 1933-34, made plans for future varsity intercollegiate debates, and organized for one of the most active years in its history.

Under Coach D. W. Morris, the society will open its season in January with two radio debates with Bates College. One will take place in Bangor and the other in Portland.

In addition, a project inaugurated by Coach Morris several years ago, will be seriously expanded during the coming

Creating the greatest major football upset in the East, a valiantly fighting horde of Maine gridiron warriors journeyed down to the Yale Bowl last Saturday to gain a decisive moral victory over the powerful Eli football machine before they finally succumbed to a 14-7 defeat, after crossing the Yale goal line for the first time in the history of athletic relationship between the two Universities.

Although every Black Bear stalwart contributed greatly to the splendid exhibition displayed by Coach Fred Brice's eleven, the forward passing combination of Co-captains Don Favor and Phil Parsons was the outstanding feature of the Maine offensive attack.

Completing six out of eight forwards, all of them going for twenty or more yards gain, the brilliant pair of Maine leaders provided the inspiration for spectacular running attack staged by MacBride, Higgins, Butler, and Littlehale.

Unsuccessful in their attempts to pierce the Maine forward wall during the first half of the contest, the Yale first team was removed from the game, and the second string team, composed largely of the stars of the 1932 Eli freshman eleven, led by Tom Curtin and Boscoe, passed their way to a pair of touchdowns.

Maine's touchdown came in the final period after Higgins, receiving a punt on the Yale 35 yard line, ran it back 15 yards. A bullet pass from Favor to Parsons placed the ball on the 5 yard line. Littlehale on four successive plunges through the center of the Yale line finally pushed it across the goal stripe and Favor place kicked the extra point. As the game ended three minutes later, Bob Lassiter, Yale captain and All American prospect for 1933, presented the ball to the last Maine player leaving the field, saying, "Here, Maine, take the ball. You certainly deserve it!"

Seated in a reserved section of the stands were 3,000 Maine alumni from all over New England. As the Yale band marched out to play the Stein Song at the opening of the second half, every man of them rose with bared head to sing the alma mater.

After the game, a banquet and dance was held in honor of the team at a New Haven hotel. Among the speakers at the banquet were Coach Brice and Coach Kanaly, formerly the head coach of track at Maine and now coach of cross country and track at Yale. Coach Kanaly stated that Maine showed the finest spirit of sportsmanship of any college with which he has been connected. He also stated that the Maine alumni present should be proud of the gift which they had

Let's Wake Up

Are we afraid to cheer? Are we too bashful? Are we spineless? What is the matter with us? When the team comes out on the field why don't we jump up, and let them know we are there and doing our small part in giving them some moral support? When the band plays the Stein Song, why don't we look like a student body that's alive?

It begins to look as though Maine students don't care whether the team wins or loses, or anything else. If we are alive, we will drown out the band when it plays the Stein Song Saturday, and we'll let the Yale scoring team know that we're with them. And we'll follow those cheerleaders and yell when they call for a yell. It looks also as though some of us could learn Maine's cheers, and as though some of the freshmen could learn the Stein Song.

It's Good For Ya

In many colleges in this country among the biggest happenings on the campuses are the regular sings. Everyone in college gathers on the steps of some building and spends a half hour singing school songs and old and new favorites.

Did you ever read what Larry wrote about his college sings? "The whole college turns out and sings and the band plays, and somebody makes a speech, and everybody cheers and then we sing the Alma Mater, just when the birds are singing their evening song and the stars are beginning to pop out. When we hummed the chorus through that dusky twilight everybody had a lump in his throat and we realized the true college spirit. It's college life."

Let's fit this picture to the Lib steps or Coburn and make Maine spirit mean something, and let's sing!

SCABBARD AND BLADE TO EXTEND FUNCTIONS

At a meeting of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, held last Wednesday evening, the organization laid plans for a year's activities in which they will introduce several innovations into the functions of the organizations.

Scabbard and Blade will attempt to have Governor Brann and Brigadier-General Hanson present at the University to be initiated into their organization and to attend the military ball.

Another new activity this year will be the awarding of two cups for military excellence. One of these cups will go to a sophomore and the other to a freshman, each of whom will have been judged the best drilled R.O.T.C. student in his class. Scabbard and Blade plans to take in several new members in the near future.

A rifle team composed of members of the organization will be formed shortly. It will compete with the teams of other Scabbard and Blade units throughout the country.

A formal meeting of Scabbard and Blade will be held tonight at seven o'clock.

CHIMNEY FIRE AT PHI GAM RESULTS IN NO DAMAGE

Surprised by the wail of the siren and the roar of the Orono fire apparatus as it arrived in front of their house at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday night, the occupants of Phi Gamma Delta rushed forth from the house to find that an unidentified passerby, seeing sparks pouring out of the chimney, had turned in an alarm.

Firemen traced the cause of the fire to an accumulation of dirt in the chimney. The blaze soon burned out of its own accord, and the fire apparatus left the scene, as its service was not needed. No damage was done.

The most brilliant stag dance of the year will be held on the evening of November 10, the night before the Bowdoin football game. This dance will be given by the Senior Skulls. Watch for announcements to come.

Alpha Omicron Pi pledges will give a picnic for their sorority sisters Monday evening, October 16.

The MAINE SNOOPUS

IT SEEMS that a lot of our freshmen have sisters and cousins visiting them.... And why must they always telegraph just before they are to arrive?... Just what the psychological effect was we don't know, but it was an astonishing effect that that big mirror at the Sigma Mu Sigma stag dance had.... Pretty classy rattle that the front door of Balentine has when it's locked, but it could be improved.... It was quite a sensation that that gang of Lambda Chi's from Lehigh created when they hit the campus last week-end.... And when the train bearing Maine's football men, and how, arrived in New Haven Friday morning, and stopped, right next to it was a car-load of monkeys on their way to one of the labs at Yale's med school.... Do you suppose there is any fateful omen in that sign?... Bob Erskine seems to be having a rather tough time locating a jelly roll machine in any of the fraternity houses about the campus.... Del Ballard has made an agreement with a beautiful Castine Normal School lass that she may wear his Delta Tau pin as long as he has her love.... You guessed it. He has hung his pin.... what's this we hear about Sir Armand and his antics. Imagine sleeping right past the station where he wanted to get off. And what did the little girl waiting there in Portland think?... This week we not only nominate but second the nomination for our roll of honor, and the University's permanent roll of honor, every member of that hard fighting and clean playing football team that scored on Yale.... And we strongly nominate for oblivion the indifference of the students.

Tell me something..

what makes a cigarette taste better

WHAT makes anything taste better? It's what is in it that makes a thing taste better.

CHESTERFIELDS taste better because we buy ripe tobaccos. These ripe tobaccos are aged two and a half years—thirty months. During this time the tobaccos improve—just like wine improves by ageing.

CHESTERFIELDS taste better because they have the right kind of home-grown tobaccos and Turkish Tobaccos "welded together."

We hope this answers your question.

NOVEL PRIZES AWARDED AT PSYCH STAG DANCE

The Sigma Mu Sigma stag dance was held Friday evening, Oct. 6, in Alumni Gym with an attendance of about 225. Larry's Bears furnished the music and floodlights added a decorative touch to the scene.

Chaperons were Prof. and Mrs. Charles Dickinson and Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Brush. Dean and Mrs. Muilenburg were guests.

Prizes were awarded to the couple entering at the psychological moment, and to the couple on whom the spotlight played at a psychological time. The first of these prizes, a box of candy with Sigma Mu Sigma in blue on the cover, was received by Miss Evelyn Tracy and Arthur Roberts. The second, a layer cake, was received by Madeline Roussin, a freshman, and Philip Snow.

A special feature was a tap dance performed by Edward Jackson and Miss Barbara Young, the latter in costume.

Part of the proceeds of this dance will go toward a scholarship presented yearly to some deserving and promising student of psychology, usually a sophomore.

Sigma Delta Zeta, honorary mathematics club, will give a startling stag dance tomorrow night, October 13. Larry Miller's Bears will furnish the music for the affair, and Fred S. Bullock, chairman of the committee in charge, has arranged several novelty dances with prizes.

Chaperons for the dance will be Professor and Mrs. Bryan and Professor and Mrs. Lucas.

PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION FOR FROSH LAST NIGHT

President Boardman's residence presented a very hospitable appearance to the eyes of the Freshman class last night when the members of the class of '37 arrived for the President's annual reception.

Each student, after being duly presented to Mr. and Mrs. Boardman, spent the rest of the time enjoying refreshments and talking with one another.

From 7:30 to 10:00 the Boardmans cheerfully greeted the newcomers, thereby establishing the memory of that momentous occasion in the minds of all.

Several members of the faculty, among whom were all the deans and their wives, Rev. and Mrs. Cecil G. Fielder, Registrar James A. Gannett, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sprague, and Miss Wilson, were present. Dean Wilson and Mr. Hincks were ushers.

The Theta Chi vic party held on Saturday night was attended by about six couples. Mrs. Alice Witherly, the matron, chaperoned. The committee was composed of Clark Perkins, chairman, Thomas Somers, and Charles Straffin. Refreshments of coffee, doughnuts, and cookies were served.

Hamburg sandwiches featured the Chi Omega picnic at the Ledges on the night of the ninth. Glowing logs lit the faces of the girls, who sat around the fire and sang the songs of their sorority.

SAVAGE-COFFIN NUPTIALS TO BE SOLEMNIZED SOON

Hope Coffin '35, is to be married to Thomas Savage, New York newspaper man, at her home in Portland on October 16 at 4:00 o'clock.

After a short honeymoon in northern Maine, Mr. Savage is leaving for a trip around the world to gather material for his paper. If the necessary arrangements can be made, the bride will accompany her husband.

Mr. Savage at present is reviewing books for the New York Herald-Tribune, and he also has a column in the Old Town Enterprise which he calls Adventures on Broadway. During his trip, however, he will collect material for a daily column for the Herald Tribune.

MAINE WILL MEET LOWELL SATURDAY

Visitors Look Powerful and Have 14 Lettermen. Aldrich Back

The University of Maine football eleven will make its third attempt of the season to break into the win column at the expense of a pass-tossing team from Lowell Textile at Alumni Field Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

The Black Bear gridsters who scored on the powerful Yale eleven last Saturday will face a team which has on its roster fourteen letter men, and which is one of the most powerful elevens in the history of its school.

By virtue of their 51-0 victory over Wagner College last week, Lowell showed its scoring power. Its forward and lateral passing attack is the chief offensive weapon of the team, an attack which functioned satisfactorily enough to hold New Hampshire State to a 7-6 score two weeks ago.

The Lowell captain, who plays left tackle, is considered by leading sports writers as one of the best college tackles in New England.

Ken Aldrich, back in the Maine line as left end after performing as substitute fullback in the Yale contest, is expected to bolster up the Pale Blue forward wall with his additional weight.

With O'Connell, end, weighing 164 pounds; Sidelinger, tackle, tipping the scale at 172 pounds, and Carl Davis, guard, weighing but 168 pounds, there was a decided lack of weight. The lightness of this trio of linemen especially handicapped Maine in its offensive blocking. Aldrich was shifted at the start of the season to the secondary line in order to add more weight to the backfield and so that he could substitute for Bob Littlehale at fullback, because the latter was a newcomer to the varsity.

However, Littlehale has come along at such a remarkable pace that Aldrich's services are entirely unnecessary. Lou Varney and Adrian Downey will battle it out for the reserve fullback berth.

Phil Parsons, right end, who turned in an outstanding performance against Yale, and Clayton Topman, right tackle, were unable to report for practice Wednesday. Parsons had an attack of boils while Topman had a wrenched knee. Both players are expected to be back in the Maine lineup Saturday.

SPORTS SPIELS

By BOB BERG

THIS AND THAT—So the Maine farmers outsmarted the Yale city slickers—The Favor to Parsons forward combination was a honey—Getting down to the real facts, Maine defeated the Eli first team 7-0, and lost to the subs 14-0—Coach "Foxy" Fred Brice's defensive strategy completely bottled up Reggie Root's running attack—And the deceptive plays—New York sports writer says "The big Yale team was running around in circles trying to find out who had the ball."

NOW AND THEN—The Black Bear's touchdown was first ever scored against the Eli Bulldog—Back in 1913 Maine held Yale to 0-0 score—3,000 alumni in a reserved section whooped it up for the Bricemen—Nearly 40,000 in all attended the encounter—Great deal of confusion in identifying players as both teams wore similar moleskins and head-gears—Captain Lassiter of Yale handed Maine the pigskin after fray remarking "Here, Maine, take the ball, you certainly deserve it."

THESE AND THOSE—75 sports scribes in New Haven press box amazed at exhibition of the down-easters—In Friday's workout at the Bowl, Don Favor attempted 8 placement kicks, none of which were good—But in the skirmish he booted a beautiful placement which soared squarely between the goal posts—

FROSH GRIDSTERS DROP OPENING GAME 22-0

A light and inexperienced Freshman football eleven was overcome by a strong Bridgton team Saturday afternoon on Alumni field by a 22-0 score. Bridgton scored in the opening minutes of play and from then on the game was over as far as the frosh were concerned. The visitors scored their other touchdowns on a bad pass by the Maine center which rolled over the goal line, and an intercepted pass which was converted into a sixty yard dash for a score.

And was plunging Bob Littlehale a rip-snorting fullback, I ask you—4 straight times he smacked the Eli front wall to chalk up the Maine touchdowns.

WHEN AND WHERE—Maine alumni hold banquet and dance for Black Bears at Garden Hotel—Coach Brice's countenance wreathed in smiles following game—"The boys were great and turned in a much better performance than I had ever hoped for—But the game isn't going to go to our heads—Lowell Textile has its strongest team in history and a real tough battle is in store for us."

Do you remember

... all of the claims that have been made about smoking tobacco—how it was that one was this and that one was that?

After all, what you want to know when you get a thing for a certain purpose is ...

"Was it made for that?"

Granger is made of White Burley—the kind of leaf tobacco that's best for pipes.

And old man Wellman, who taught us how to make Granger, knew how.

Granger is made to smoke in a pipe—and folks seem to like it.
