3rd Conference Gets Underway Next Saturday

Margaret Church
Will Preside at
Opening Session

The program for the third annual Women's Leadership Conference, which will get underway Saturday, Oct. 18 at 2:00 p.m., was announced this morning by Margaret Church, chairman of the conference program. Miss Church will preside at the opening session Saturday afternoon at which time Dr. Elspeth Melville, dean of Westbrook Junior College, will speak on "Life's Priorities."

The remainder of Saturday afternoon will be spent in various group discussions upon important phases of women's campus activities. Talks will include discussions for club officers, the planning of social functions, and club programs, and the functioning of membership committees. There will be group singing and instruction in square dancing.

To Discuss Letter-Writing

Sunday morning the conference will reopen with a defense talk at 10:00 a.m. by some member of the faculty. There will be group singing at 10:45 and discussions will resume at 11:40. Talks will include such subjects as poster making, business letters of application, social correspondence, food and frolic for picnics, and parliamentary law. The program will end with a meditation service conducted by Miss Whitte of the M.C.A. and Mary Louise White.

The aims of the conference are to define leadership and the duties of the leaders in their various capacities, making more efficient officers. The entire affair is being sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. and the Women's Athletic Association, Women's Student Government, and the Panhellenic Council, each sending two representatives to the meetings.

Nineteen Are Enrolled In Honors Courses

Six Sophs, Seniors,
Seven Juniors
Are Registered

Six sophomores, seven juniors, and six seniors are enrolled in the honors courses of the college of arts and sciences this semester, according to an announcement made today by Prof. Stanley R. Ashby, chairman of the committee on honors work.

One student, Edgar T. Pitts, is taking the tutorial honors course.

The courses in general honors consist primarily of directed reading under the supervision of a tutor, with whom periodic conferences and discussions are held.

Seniors Write Theses

The sophomores do reading from an extensive list of the world's most famous books. Juniors and seniors specialize on some subject, and seniors write a thesis giving the results of their investigations.

Sophomores enrolled in the courses are: Giulio Barbera, Mary Brackett, Philip Day, Jane Parks, Hughene Phillips, and Irene Rowe.

YWCA Entertains Transfer Students

Transfer women students will be entertained at supper by the Y.W.C.A. Wednesday, Oct. 22, at 5:30 p.m. Each student will have a Y member as her hostess.

The purpose of the supper is to promote friendships between transfer students and those who have been on the campus longer. Mary Hempstead is chairman of the committee in charge and will be assisted by Eleanor Johnson and Natalie Curtis.

Frosh Criticism A Bit Unjust, Is Conclusion of Sophomore

By Natalie Curtis

Is this year any different than previous years? There seems to be a lot of criticism handed to the current freshman class. Isn't it possible that some of it is unjust?

Impulsively we upperclass girls remind the frosh for not speaking, not wearing their hats correctly, and not being respectful. However, when you come right down to it, weren't we just the same once upon a time?

Snippy or Not?

A lot of sophs have said, "We never saw such a snippy bunch." Frankly, I think they're right—and that includes the writer—are just trying to display their newly acquired prestige.

Here's an incident which may be pleasing to the freshmen at the expense of the sophomores. A junior was asked by a courageous soph if last year's class was as "bad" as this year's. "Heavens, yes...twice as bad," retorted the junior. With that answer the sophs decided to let the attitude of the freshmen pass. Perhaps after all they were like that last year.

Rules Need Emphasizing

It may be that the freshmen were not thoroughly made to understand at the beginning of the year the little courtesies that are due upperclassmen. I don't believe that the freshmen girls are intentionally disrespectful. Through ignorance of rules they commit their misdeeds, such as entering the dining room before upperclassmen.

Freshmen should realize that first impressions are most important. Right now is the time for them to be on their toes. They're the center of attraction, and upperclassmen are watching intently for both their good and bad points. Now's the time to display a pleasing personality!

Our conclusion is that freshmen classes are as a whole pretty much the same. True, it does take a certain amount of time to get into the "college groove," but the sooner it's done the better off the freshmen are going to be.

El Circulo Espanol Takes In Eighty

About 80 new members were initiated into El Circulo Espanol, honorary Spanish club, at a meeting held in the Maine Christian Association building last night. Because this was such a large number to initiate all at once, only about 10 or 15 actually went through the actions while the others watched. Songs were sung in Spanish, and some of the conversation was also in that language.

A dance will be sponsored by the club on Nov. 14, and will be held in the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium from 8:00 to 11:30 p.m.

New officers for the coming year are: Gerard Goulette, president; William Dow, vice president; Shirley Ashman, treasurer; Allen Pulsifer, secretary; and Earl Adams, chairman of publicity. Miss Frances Arnold is faculty adviser for the club.

"The Movies March On," a film showing in March of Time style the work of the Museum of Modern Art of New York, will be shown at the next meeting of the University of Maine Photo Club Monday, Oct. 20, in Room 6, South Stevens, at 7:15 p.m.

The film will show the work of the Museum of Art in collecting and exhibiting photographic material and especially its work in preserving and making available for exhibition anywhere film material relating to the history of the motion picture as an art.

Parents Day Events Were Big Success, Says Brockway

Informal Supper
And Varsity Game
Attended by 465

Over 550 parents were present at the annual Parents' Day program of the University which was held Saturday, according to information received from Philip Brockway of the Placement Bureau. Most of the visitors took part in the program, which included a special review by the R.O.T.C. unit, the freshman and varsity football games, and a lunch and supper served at the Alumni gymnasium and girls' dormitories.

Of the parents who came to visit freshmen, 465 took advantage of Ted Curtis' offer of free tickets to the Maine-New Hampshire game upon payment of the tax only.

A large number of parents were present when Mrs. Ralph W. Emerson, president of the Maine Federation of Women's Clubs, presided at the informal supper held Saturday evening in the Memorial gymnasium. Mrs. Emerson, who was the first woman in the history of the University to preside at this function, introduced the speakers, who included President Arthur A. Hauck and J. E. Nutter, of Sanford.

Ruth Higgins and Louise Eastman, of the class of 1945, entertained the assemblage with a reading and a piano solo.

Co-eds Duped By Sophomore

The age of chivalry has definitely gone with the proverbial wind, for it is authoritatively reported that no less than 48 attractive Colvin residents were "stood up" the other night when one insignificant sophomore boy let them down with a bang.

After keying up the freshman hearts with a promise that he would return to make a speech, the faithless knave left, failing to fulfill his scheduled appearance.

For one full hour did the trusting damsels keep vigil at the windows, but nary a sophomore did they see.

Once the door bell rang, and a mad rush was precipitated toward the front door. But the co-eds were doomed to disappointment—it was a false alarm.

Classes Begin In Women's Defense Course

Miss Helen Lengyel
Instructs Group
In First Aid

Defense courses under the direction of the Women's Co-ordinating Council got under way early this week when Miss Helen Lengyel instructed the first group of the first aid course Tuesday evening in alumni gymnasium. Other courses will be organized in the near future, the committee said this morning.

The Women's Co-ordinating Committee was organized to prevent any duplication of courses or work done on defense projects which is undertaken by any other organization on campus. Heads of any groups should bring their ideas to the committee, which will discuss them at their meetings and report on their possibility of being undertaken.

Freda Flanders Chairman

Freda Flanders is chairman of the committee; Barbara Scribner, secretary; Alicia Coffin, publicity agent; and Maria Phillips, supervisor of the accumulation of tinfoil.

Courses to be studied by University women are: first aid, under the direction of Miss Lengyel, motor corps, nutrition aid, canteen course, warden course, and nursing. Instructors for most of the courses are tentative and have not yet been announced. Knitting will also be included in the defense program. Girls from each of the dormitories will be appointed to supervise this work.

The meetings will be held each Tuesday afternoon at 3:20 in South Stevens. All who are interested are invited to submit their ideas to some member of the council.

Four Speakers Engaged For College Assemblies

Barbara Savage
To Vermont
For Conference

Maine Delegate to Represent WSGA
At Burlington

Barbara Savage, president of the Women's Student Government Association, will represent the Council as a visiting delegate at the Conference of the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government to be held from Oct. 30 to Nov. 2 at the University of Vermont in Burlington, it was announced today.

At a recent meeting of the Council, Miss Savage appointed chairmen of the various committees to serve throughout the year. Those appointed were: service committee, Eleanor Crowell, assisted by Winona Cole; assembly committee, Helen Deering; student-faculty relations committee, Betty Price, assisted by Bette Barker and Frances Sheehy; exchange dinner committee, Martha Pierce.

This week the presidents of the formerly a part of Panhellenic but was added this year to the student government. The committee instigates the exchanging of girls by the several dormitories in order that each girl may become better acquainted with those in other dormitories.

This week the presidents of the women's dormitories met for dinner with Barbara Savage in Merrill Hall. They compared the problems arising in the houses and discussed methods of keeping life in all the dormitories similar.

Glee Clubs Sing In Bangor Concert

The University of Maine combined glee clubs will make their first appearance of the season on Oct. 29 and 30 at the Maine Teachers Convention, James C. Selwood, director, announced this week. On Oct. 29 they will sing at the Bangor City Hall with the Bangor Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Prof. Adelbert W. Sprague.

On the following evening, "college night" of the Maine Teachers Convention, at which the presidents of the four colleges of Maine will be speakers, the Glee Clubs will be heard in five numbers conducted by Mr. Selwood.

The program includes the following: "Now let every tongue adore Thee," by Bach, with the combined glee clubs; "Stars of the Summer Night," "Dance, my comrades," by Bennett, sung by the men's glee club; Listz's "Liebestraum," done by the girls' glee club; and excerpts from the "Pirates of Penzance," by Gilbert and Sullivan, sung by the combined glee clubs.

Prof. Ernest Jaekch
Speaks Oct. 27 On World Revolution

Discussion of "World Revolution of Our Era" by Prof. Ernest Jaekch, director of the New Commonwealth Institute of London, on the morning of Oct. 27 and other program dates open to the public at the University of Maine were announced here today.

The annual armistice day program will be held in the Memorial gymnasium at 9:30 Nov. 11. Alec Miller, English sculptor, will speak four times on Nov. 24 and 25. Mrs. Carl Akeley, widow of the African explorer and scientist, will give a lecture, illustrated by motion pictures, on her experiences in the jungle, on Dec. 6. The Christmas vespers program will be held on Dec. 14.

Schairer To Speak

Following the Christmas holidays, Reinhold Schairer, head of the department of international relations and studies, the Institute of Education, of London, is tentatively scheduled for a two-day speaking engagement on the campus. The Curtis string quartet will appear in a concert on the evening of Jan. 16. The annual Y.W.C.A. assembly will be held on Feb. 10. On Feb. 28, Miss Tashimara, Yugoslav folk dancer, will give a program.

Prof. Jaekch was formerly professor at the Oriental seminar of the University of Berlin and at the close of the first world war founded the Hochschule fur Politik in Berlin for the scientific study of politics. He also taught at the summer school for international studies at Geneva. He is the author of books in European, German, and German-American relations.

MCA Cabinet Announces Frosh Forum Meetings

Prof. I. Douglass
Speaks Monday
On Yellowstone

The Freshman M.C.A. Cabinet announces a series of Freshman Forum discussions to be held every Monday night in the north dining room of Hannibal Hamlin. The purpose of these forum meetings is to give the freshmen an opportunity to meet the faculty and to participate in the discussion of events of interest which they would not ordinarily be privileged to enjoy.

During the past three weeks the forum has presented coaches Eck Allen and Ben Dobbs, with moving pictures of last year's outstanding games; Pres. Arthur A. Hauck, who presented colored movies of Hawaii; Prof. Reginald Coggeshall, who spoke on "Behind the News."

Douglass To Speak Monday

On Monday night, Oct. 20, Prof. Irwin B. Douglass will be the supper guest of the freshmen in the dormitories and will present an illustrated lecture on the Yellowstone National Park, featuring colored slides prepared by himself.

On Oct. 27, Prof. Stanislaus Sniesko will speak on his experiences in Poland.

These meetings convene at six o'clock, immediately following supper, and are open to all the freshmen both in the dormitories and off-campus.

Scabbar and Blade Plans Military Ball

Scabbar and Blade, honorary military society, began preliminary plans for the annual Military Ball at a meeting in the Armory Tuesday.

Edward Barrows, Bert Blanchard, and Fred Koialovitch were named as the band committee, and Francis Burger was appointed chairman of the decorating committee.

Carol Davis was elected treasurer of the society to succeed Bernard Colpitts, who did not return to school. Other officers are Eugene Leger, president; Gordon Winters, vice president; and Rudy Conti, secretary.

Tribute Set For 1901 Football Team Twelve Players and Coach to be Honored at Homecoming

Plans to pay tribute to the University of Maine football team of 1901, first Maine team to win a State Football Championship, were announced today by the committee in charge of the annual Alumni Homecoming Program through the chairman, Prof. Earle F. Bennett, '23.

In the tradition of recent Homecoming Programs the noon luncheon Homecoming Day, Saturday, Nov. 8, will honor members of this outstanding athletic team as guests of honor.

A special invitation to living members of the 1901 team has been sent by the committee inviting them to be the guests of the University and the Alumni Association to receive the tribute of their fellow alumni in recognition of their historic place as the first in a long list of State Championship football teams.

Coached by Farley

Coached by J. W. Farley, a graduate of Harvard, and captained by Carlos

Dorticos, at right tackle, the team played a season of nine games with one defeat by Tufts College. Defeats were twice inflicted on Colby and Bates and the final game against Bowdoin ended in a 22-5 win for Maine. The Bowdoin score and 18 points by Tufts were the only times during the season that this great team was scored upon. Coach Farley, who has been invited with the team as one of the guests of honor, subsequently left Maine to serve as head coach at Harvard, a significant tribute to his ability.

Members of the Championship Team of 40 years ago were: C. Dorticos, '03, Capt., now an engineer with General Electric in Chicago; W. L. Cole, '03, now in Providence, R. I.; H. E. Duren, '02, president of Western Massachusetts Electric Company, Greenfield, Mass.; W. C. Elliott, '02, division manager, Sturtevant Co. of Canada, Montreal.

C. M. Rackliffe, '02, department manager, Carolina Power and Light Company, Raleigh, N. C.; J. H. Sawyer, '04, civil engineer, Beaumont, Texas; A. R. Touse, '03, Jefferson City, Missouri; P. L. Bean, '04, consulting engineer in Lewiston; C. L. Bailey, '05, at Fort Shaw, Montana; E. A. Parker, '04, a physician at Skowhegan; L. C. Bradford, '04, of Turner; and A. G. Taylor, '04, of Pompeys Pillar, Montana.

To Pay Tribute

Tribute to these champions of 1901 will be paid at the Homecoming luncheon, the climax of the annual fall program scheduled for the week-end of November 7 and 8. Other features will include the annual meeting of the 'M' Club on Friday, a Freshman football game with Bridgton, and the annual Alumnae-Student field hockey game Saturday morning, and the big event of the day, the Bowdoin-Maine Varsity Football game on Saturday afternoon.

Ghandi Gives Advice...

Mohandas K. Gandhi, an Indian of wide repute, appears to be among the latest whose war views seem to have merited publication, yea, even on page one.

M. Gandhi avers that he would be happy if neither Germany nor Great Britain win. The most desirable situation, says he, would be for both nations to exhaust themselves until the conflict ends in a stalemate.

However, we are always suspicious of people who invoke the dead, and in his remarks concerning America Gandhi calls upon the shades of Abraham Lincoln to succor us. "If America were true to her tradition," quoth he, "she would say what Abraham Lincoln would say."

But that is as far as he goes—or at least as far as the newspaper report goes—and we are left wondering exactly what Abraham Lincoln would say. We have considered calling Carl Sandburg, feeling that he would be the one most qualified to put words in the mouth of "honest Abe," but this plan did not, after a little consideration, seem feasible.

The report goes on to relate that during the interview Gandhi sat "...surrounded by his followers and spinning," but does not indicate what he was spinning. We would like to play facetious and suggest that it was probably "yarns."

Explanation...

In all probability, the outstanding feature of this business of "selective service" and its relation to the college student is that it is the subject upon which the college student is the least informed.

We do not wish to delve into the field of public service; but we will indulge in an approximation thereof, and publish the following paragraph from "Selective Service," official organ of the national headquarters, Selective Service System—21st and C Streets NW, Washington, D.C. (for those who are interested). The paragraph says, quote:

"If a local board determines that a particular student registrant is in training and preparation to perform a function which the national interest requires should be performed, and at the time such student will begin to perform that function there will be a shortage of persons qualified to perform such function, it should defer such student. It should be clearly understood that it is a shortage within the occupation which forms the basis of the deferment and not the fact that the registrant is a student."

That seems clear enough to us. But if you have any questions, well...

Two college students were discussing topics of interest, and in the process one of them averred that he had stopped smoking. "Oh, is that so?" said the other, applying a match to a fresh cigarette.

The conversation had been resumed for a few moments when the abstainer broke out, "Er...ah, pardon me, but could I have a cigarette?" "Why, I thought you just said you'd quit," exclaimed the second student.

"Well, I really haven't quit smoking cigarettes," replied the first. "I've just given up buying them."

Utilitarianism...

Having no particular axe to grind this week, we looked around for a change and discovered that in the interim the current era has shown new evidences of an increasingly utilitarian spirit.

This point of view is based upon the fact that from Kent State University comes the news that concrete tennis courts are being constructed, which, in addition to their use for tennis, will also be used as the stage of an outdoor amphitheater seating 10,000 persons and as an ice skating rink.

The development of such a program confronts us with unlimited possibilities. We can picture a large reading room in the new library. The chief cataloger presses a button. The floor slides back, revealing a luxurious tiled swimming pool. The circulation assistant yanks at a knife switch. The walls roll up, disclosing galleries for the spectators...and ad infinitum.

However, we can also picture this situation. It is a busy Sunday at the library, getting on toward dusk. A student, unacquainted with the ways of the library, reaches for a switch. The floor slides back...

Turntable Talk

By Steve Kierstead

We would like to start out by calling your attention to a bit of stuff that might be had via the air waves. The New York Philharmonic-Symphony Society is celebrating its Centennial Season and has just begun its twelfth season on the Columbia Network. This symphony orchestra is the oldest in this country and the third oldest in the world.

For the first half of its season, eight distinguished conductors are scheduled to direct. Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, directs the next concert (October 19). He is followed by John Barbirolli (October 26, November 2); Bruno Walter (November 9 and 16); Arthur Rodzinski of the Cleveland Orchestra (November 23, 30, December 7); Dimitri Mitropoulos of the Minneapolis Symphony (December 14, 21, 28, January 4).

The second half of the season is directed by Fritz Busch, Serge Koussevitzky, Eugene Goossens, John Barbirolli, and Bruno Walter.

A Bit of Jazz History

Now let's turn lightly to jazz. Jazz has gone through some great transitions in the last decade and a half. It didn't just come along by itself, so let's look in back of it all and see roughly what has taken place.

At first Jazz was nothing more than a continuous chain of solos, with practically no attention paid to orchestral scoring or effects. Early recordings will back this up effectively.

Fletcher Henderson Important

Among the first important men to come along and change things was one Fletcher Henderson and his band, especially in the early thirties. His ideas were among the best and his attempts outshone others before him. He wanted to derive effects from the various sections and also seek a driving rhythm by having the band play in a unified, pre-arranged whole, broken now and then by solos, a trace from the chain solo era.

Out of this grew the "riff" and "figure" style of playing melodies.

Since that time the "riff" school has hung on and by repetition and combination of arranging we sometimes have an old "riff" tossed in with new arrangements. All in all, this figure style of playing is the basis and sole composition of many of our present-day "jump" tunes.

Goodman Followed Henderson

Goodman came along and used Fletcher Henderson as an arranger. Thus the style created by Henderson was kept, but Goodman added his famous "power-house" brass. He simply superimposed smashing brass choruses and a cyclonic, bombastic, or "push" rhythm accentuated by one Gene Krupa.

"Power-house" lasted for a while, but as all this was going on, Duke Ellington and some of the better colored bands had been experimenting with tone qualities in their arrangements.

This fourth phase began to catch on, and Goodman, Thornhill, Shep Fields, Miller, and many others began to come forth with various ideas on voicing of the various sections. All were striving for new expression but in diverse and sundry methods; none faintly resembling the other.

Tone Poem Tendency

Out of this grew an understanding and use of these four elements so that our present-day dance music is tending actually toward a tone poem style. This may be realized by reviewing the work of such men as Art Shaw and his treatment of strings with the usual brass, reed, and rhythm combination; Thornhill's use of various woodwinds; the recent trend (the last five years) for every band to use highly stylized arrangements.

The jazz world is a highly creative realm, little understood by the average person and merely accepted by the audience that it has. It has gone through its rough stages and is now beginning to come forth on its own. Perhaps it will grow into the great American music; perhaps it will fade and give way to some other expression—your guess is as good as ours.

Dear Girls,

Peter Sylvester Pikelis and Don "All That Meat and No Potatoes" Robinson, as well as the rest of us Sigma Nus, wish to express our appreciation to you for your co-operation and spirit during our recent Hell Week activities.

You girls showed the initiates some real competition in aviation and singing, to say nothing of the paddling—Peter will vouch for that.

Your serenade last Tuesday night was a real treat. Let's hope that we can give you as good a one this week-end.

Dear Sir:

Last Friday while walking across the campus, I noticed the groundsman raking leaves in the pouring rain. They were all improperly clothed and in imminent danger of catching cold.

Surely these men deserve better treatment than this. Couldn't indoor work be provided in inclement weather? Let's practice some of this social justice we're supposed to learn in class.

Very truly yours,

Campus Poll To Be Resumed Here This Month

University of Texas Student Survey Starts Fourth Year

Face-to-face interviews with University of Maine students began this week for the nation-wide Student Opinion Surveys of America, which will be published weekly in the "Maine Campus."

"Are you for or against changing the neutrality law so that American supply ships may be armed and sent into war zones?" is the first question to be used by the Surveys, the only regularly recurring college poll conducted by means of scientific sampling referendum that covers every section of the country.

160 Papers Included

The "Campus," like 160 other undergraduate newspapers, sponsors the non-profit organization on an exchange basis: local poll results are sent in to the University of Texas headquarters for tabulation, and in return the member papers have publication rights to the weekly results.

Every time a survey is conducted, the "Campus" interviewer receives a questionnaire on national, international, and college problems, all questions having been pretested for their unbiased wording. Instructions are also received describing the exact types and number of students to be contacted.

Polls Scientifically Controlled

The polls are thus "controlled" by making sure that the correct proportions of men and women, working and non-working students, freshmen and upperclassmen, are represented. The ratios for each part of the country are based on enrollment figures of the U. S. Office of Education. Gallup and Fortune poll statisticians aided the University of Texas in designing the Surveys, now in their fourth year of operation.

A word to the U of M men and co-eds --

THIS YEAR IS DIFFERENT!

October is the time to do your Christmas shopping

In December you may be too late to buy the gifts you want

COME TO BANGOR AND MEET YOUR FRIENDS IN

This year's situation is unique. Right now there are hundreds and hundreds of Christmas gifts in Freeze's. We have practically everything. But later in the season, when our present stocks are sold out, it may be nearly impossible to get replacements. Right now is the time to buy! December may be too late.

In The Spotlight

By Phil Pierce

Heard Stevie Kierstead and his boys in really rare form the other night. Standing out conspicuously was the tenor sax improvisations of Hal Blood which, like good wine, seem to improve with age. Maybe it's just practice.

Camp Thomas really went out of the world on a couple of his trumpet breaks. Not forgetting the rest of the band, we are reminded of a sage bit of wisdom once imparted to us by one whom we consider the best in the business, Duke Ellington, who said, "It takes more than soloists to make a good band."

The Duke, of course, was right, and Stevie's boys have what it takes to make a good band.

The movies under consideration this week seem to be, "You'll Never Get Rich" and "Unfinished Business."

We can dispense with "You'll Never Get Rich" by saying that Astaire dances, that's all. Movie magazines have it classified as a comedy. We don't see how they can prove it.

"Unfinished Business," on the other hand, is worth spending the price of admission. Starring Irene Dunne and Bob Montgomery, the show is rather well done, and Dunne and Montgomery turn in their usual dependable performances.

Preston Foster, in the supporting role, plays his customary "heel" characterization. Some day, somebody besides this editor is going to come to the conclusion that Foster can act and give him a better role.

We always like the lat O. O. McIntyre's description of Fred Allen's voice. Said McIntyre, "He sounds like a man with false teeth chewing on slate pencils."

The prize for the dumbest trick of the week goes to a certain freshman who talked back to an Owl.

Right off hand we can't remember where they buried the body.

Varsity Harriers Idle Until State Meet On Oct. 31

Victory Over Wildcats Indicates Possibility Of Very Strong Team

The varsity cross-country team won its opening meet Saturday, defeating New Hampshire, 22-34. Dwight Moody and Leo Estabrook shared the honors by taking first place for Maine.

The result indicates that Maine may have an even stronger team than last year by the time the State Meet is held. New Hampshire was good, and but for the failure of a couple of men to finish, might have made the meet very close.

Mistakes Hurt Maine

Maine made mistakes. Two runners set a pace that was too fast in the early stages of the race, and as a result one was unable to finish and the other was unable to finish as near the front as he should have.

On the other hand, Irwin Higgins turned in a far better performance than was expected. He had been working out a week, after spending two weeks harvesting potatoes in Aroostook.

There are no more dual meets scheduled, although attempts have been made to arrange one with Rhode Island or Connecticut. The State Meet is not until Oct. 31, the New Englanders are Nov. 10, and the Nationals Nov. 17.

Kappa Sigma Massacres I.S.O. 48-0

Champs Run Up New High; Phi Eta Rolls To Victory Over Dorm B

A slight rain fell at intermittent intervals last Sunday afternoon, but it did not prevent the Kappa Sigma Steamroller from compiling a 48-0 score at the expense of the I.S.O. club in a semi-final touch football game.

The Kappa Sig score is probably the highest ever run up in a touch football game since the intramural organization was founded. Phi Eta was only three touchdowns behind as it romped through Dorm A by a 30-6 count.

Kappa Sigma 48—I.S.O. 0

A sleeper pass from Al McNeilly to Don Abbott on the first play of the game started the massacre. And it wound up with three touchdowns in the final period.

Phi Eta Kappa 30—Dorm A 6

The tricky Phi Etas scored in every period in this battle to push over the freshmen. Don Kilpatrick and Red Meserve led the Phi Eta rout.

North Hall 2—Beta Theta Pi 0

Frankie Burger's club was no match for the strategy of Coach Bert Pratt, and the Pratt boys got two first downs and victory. Kozicky and Peppard stood out for the winners.

Sigma Nu 18—East Oak 0

Passing was a deciding factor here as Sigma Nu got two scores in the first period and one in the second. Charlie Carrier ran over with two passes and Joe Adler the other.

Lambda Chi Alpha 6 Cabins 0

Lambda Chi won a close one last week to stay in the race, and the Cabin Colony made them step to eke out this one. The losers had only 10 men when the game started.

Phi Mu Delta 2—Sigma Chi 0

Two first downs achieved by passes in the first period provided the margin of victory here. White, Tooley, Downes, and Higgins starred for the winners.

Alpha Tau Omega 24—Dorm B 0

Stan Phillips' combine showed its power in this battle with scores in all but the third period. Ed Robertson and George Adams added up one apiece and Bob MacKenzie got the other two.

Phi Gamma Delta 6—West Oak 0

The Fijis did not have quite as easy a time as last week but managed to pull through. Don Harper scored the only touchdown on a pass.

Bear's Blocking, Tackling Improve; UConn's Strong

The University Black Bears hit the road Wednesday afternoon for the first football trip of the current season. And it will be the first of three games away from home when the Bears take the field on Saturday afternoon against the Nutmeggers of Conn. Univ. at Storrs.

The Bears have just finished a three-game home stand and will be away from Orono for the next three Saturdays. Next week it will be Bates at Lewiston followed by Colby at Waterville on Nov. 1. The home stand shows a record of one win, one tie, and one loss.

Blocking, Tackling Better

Against the UConn's Pale Blue will be out to mark up a margin on the plus side of the records. But it will not be an easy job by any means. The down-state team is thirsting for victory; for three weeks they have been nosed out by margins ranging from two points to seven points. And this week there is bound to be no satisfaction unless it be a victory.

On the other hand, the Bears have been plugging away at the opposition, taking each game as it comes up. And at the same time the blocking and tackling have been improving with each Saturday battle. Considerable improvement was shown in the New Hampshire game in these departments; Goodchild's score was achieved behind some excellent blocks thrown by the Bears.

Battle of Strategy

Scussel, Perko, and Harris have been operating quite effectively at times in the Nutmeg backfield with Scussel gaining yardage on the receiving end of Harris' passes. The Bears will have the combinations of Nutter, Hutchinson, Barrows, and Goodchild to match the home team's strategy. Coach Eck Allen is looking for a good game, and this may be the day for the Bears to come into their own in a big way.

Comparisons between teams do not mean very much, but the following story complicates the matter when it comes to picking the winner. Maine lost to Rhode Island by a close 20-13 score; the previous Saturday the Rams had fallen before Coast Guard by an overwhelming 38-0 score. And on that same day the Rams were in Orono, the UConn's lost to Coast Guard by a 7-0 count.

The Lineup

The lineup for the game:
LE Cliff Nickerson
LT Red Morrill
LG Ray Neal
C Bobo Geneva
RG Bill Irvine
RT Bill Harding
RE Dick Burrill

With Emile King out, the backfield will probably line up with Jack Zeitz at quarter, Al Hutchinson and Carl Goodchild at halves, and Ed Barrows at fullback.

Fall Field Hockey Games To Start

On Monday of next week, the annual fall field hockey games will start. The teams will follow the schedule as approved by the Women's Athletic Council.

In the very near future the "M" Club will sponsor a clinic for all interested hockey officials. While hockey is getting underway, the tennis tourney in the meantime is being held up due to unfavorable weather.

A number of freshman girls have responded to the second call for players, and thus the frosh are assured of a fairly good team after all.

How Would You Do The Picking Here?

And here we are at the task for another Saturday's games with a likely looking list on the docket. With fingers crossed, here goes!

Ye Ed:

Maine 7 Connecticut 6
Colby 19 Middlebury 6
Bates 14 Northeastern 0
Williams 18 Bowdoin 0

Bud Harris:

Maine 0 Connecticut 0
Colby 14 Middlebury 0
Northeastern 13 Bates 7
Williams 26 Bowdoin 7

Frank Gilley:

Maine 14 Connecticut 13
Colby 20 Middlebury 0
Bates 19 Northeastern 12
Williams 26 Bowdoin 7

BEAR FACTS

By Icky Crane

Why Predict?

The "Out-on-the-Limb" club went into action last week-end and in the case of Ye Ed almost went out of business. The members are still in town, however, and are all set to give it another try. So take a look at the list at the bottom of this page!

Ye Ed is on the bottom of the pile after picking Amherst to lose to Bowdoin (the Polar Bears gyped me!) in addition to a Maine victory. The other two chose the Lord Jeffs while all of the trio took Tufts and Colby.

Frank Gilley almost hit the Maine game by picking the Bears 7-6. And Bud Harris hit the Colby-Vermont tussle on the nose with a 13-0 Colby score. But the Amherst predictions were not even close as the Lord Jeffs went to town.

What a Game!

Again the weather cleared up fairly well except for the hard wind...when the rain started early in the afternoon, an usher suggested pulling the sliding roof over the south stands...the spectators were still looking for seats when Goodchild scooted for the score on the second play of the game...Emile King was hurt in the first period and may be out for some time. His loss as a field general can be measured by the scores the Black Bears might have compiled by his play-calling.

"Their Team Is All Shot" is the new warcry of the Maine stands...the sun peeped out in the last period but too late to warm things up...if Maine had not fumbled on their own 20, there is a possibility that there might have been another score...the UConn's have a good team and after three losses by close scores are about ready to strike...but so are the Bears.

Beautiful Rain!

At the rally: Mark wanted to run Northeastern on Saturday. It was a good fight between "You Are My Sunshine" of the Kappa Sigs and the "Beer Barrel Polka" of the frosh, with Coach Jones the winner...lovely rain for the jayvee game last Friday as the boys slipped and slid...those Frosh! Ouch! Two touchdowns in eight plays! The laterals looked good except when Ricker nabbed me to stop a touchdown march.

Congrats to the harriers for their upset! The Wildcats were favored because of two weeks more practice. But Moody and Estabrook came in tied for first to bring home the bacon. Dick Martinez was in fourth with John Stanley in seventh followed by Higgins.

Here and There

The Northeastern boys who visited me over the week-end of the game liked the Maine "Hello" very much. And they also liked the way Emile King played ball!...Stan Johnson is married now and living on Bailey's Island...Vinny Myers has issued 123 football suits to date...the lighting system is in full operation with the balls flying by night now...and the refinished ticket booth by the field-house cheers up the place a bit.

Bert Pratt says that he is in training for the winter sports team...this corner picks the jayvees over M.C.I. but it will be the Frosh on next Thursday (get me a bomb shelter!)...the late Howard Jones and B.U.'s Pat Hanley pioneered the All-Star football games but got almost no co-operation from others in the profession...during the warm spell at B.U. the football players laid out mattresses and blankets on the gridiron and slept there hot nights...fraternity rushing at Bowdoin raised havoc with recent practice sessions...and Maine players have come to practice this week after sleepless nights.

Odds and Ends

Ed Steacie III (NORTHEASTERN NEWS): One of the things that impressed the Northeastern players was the large number of reserves that the University of Maine featured. A hastily taken count by some of the players revealed that more than four full teams were at Coach Allen's disposal...also the NEWS in regard to Maine's T-formation: The Huskies major weakness has always been its pass defense, and they were helpless against this new strategy. The result was that Maine completed ten passes for a total of 132 yards.

Jones' Squad Took Higgins; Visitors Yet To Win One

Phil Jones' junior varsity squad, with one victory in its pockets, has been getting in trim for Saturday's duel with Maine Central Institute. This will be a home game starting at two o'clock.

The jayvees combined determination, pep, and plenty of good football to floor Higgins by a 13 to 6 margin last Friday. The Pittsfield pigskinners, on the other hand, have yet to win a game. M. C. I. held Kents Hill to a scoreless tie last Saturday and lost to powerful Hebron 19 to 0 in its opening tilt.

Nute Reports

The sub-varsity boys have been working on fundamentals the past few days as well as mastering a few more offensive plays. The team has been strengthened by the return of Gilman to his center position and also by the addition of Warren Nute, a halfback, to the squad. With these two men available, Ben Graham's improved play at fullback, and one game behind them, Coach Jones figures that he'll have a more potent club on the field this Saturday.

Fall Net Tourney In First Round

Due to the recent rainy spell, all of the first round matches in the annual fall tennis tournament have not been played off. Players who have not yet played their first scheduled opponent should do so at once.

Bert Pratt and Malcolm Peckham, seeded first and second respectively in the tourney, won from their opponents by default.

The seeded players in the tournament have survived the first round very well with only Dave Pennell (8) being left by the wayside. Most of the matches played to date have been settled by default with few close matches being played.

Moore Edges Talbot

Among the seeded players to advance to date are Bert Pratt, the defending champion, Tom Moore (17), Joe Ingalls (16), Dave Greenwood (5), Wally Francis (4), Milt Gross (11), Carl Kilpatrick (9), Dick Chadwick (13), and Mal Peckham (2).

Tom Moore won a close battle from Bill Talbot. Joe Ingalls won over Ed Hall, and Arnold Davis lost to Greenwood by default. Wally Francis won at the expense of Horace Palmer while Milt Gross defeated Arnold Coffey. Carl Kilpatrick had a close match with Jean Hufnagel before winning. Chadwick won by the default of Charlie Kloss.

When the weather clears, the tennis courts should be the scene of some of the best tennis matches that have ever been played at the University. There are at least twenty very capable racket-swingers entered in the chase for the Freese trophy, and these men will all be playing inspired tennis in their quest for the coveted prize.

Early this week the frosh got their first taste of the T-formation in preparation for the jayvee contest. As in the past, this game is the hardest game of the season. Last fall the frosh took over by a 13-6 score, and the present team will be out to do the same.

UConn's Have Been Far From Lucky!

The Nutmeggers—the only team that the Bears will face this fall that does not have a Maine boy on the squad. Out of the 47 on the roster, 43 are from the home state with two from Minnesota and one each from New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Thirteen lettermen, seven of them juniors. Heaviest man, 218 lb. guard Solon Silverstein, '42. Lightest man, soph back Dick Grant (140). Won four and lost two last fall; took the Bears 13-6. This year—lost to Coast Guard 7-0, Massachusetts State 8-6, and Wesleyan 7-0.

Frosh Teams Meet Rivals In X-Country

Caribou, Bangor, Unity And Old Town Highs To Provide Opposition

The Maine freshman cross country teams will swing into action on Saturday when the Frosh A team will oppose Caribou High, B team will face Old Town and Bangor, and team C will run against Unity.

Caribou has several strong runners, but the team as a whole may be inconsistent. Old Town has already tied team B earlier this season, and the results of the Old Town-Bangor and team B race will probably be quite close. Bangor should not be quite as good as Old Town. Unity will not have a very strong squad; but when the first 14 men of the Maine squad have been taken out, those remaining should not constitute a very strong team either.

Team A Loses

Last Saturday the Frosh A team met its first defeat of the year, losing to Presque Isle and tying Hopedale High, of Hopedale, Mass. The score of the triangular meet was Presque Isle 28, team A 46, and Hopedale 46. The freshman B and C teams won their meets, with team B defeating Winter Harbor, 20-40, and C team taking Freedom and Monson Academies.

Probable men on each team for next Saturday's meet are: A team—Folsom, Hanson, Davis, Bovie, Thompson, York, and Fish. Team B—Marble, Garland, Murray, Young, Cole, Wood, and J. Crockett. Team C—Goldthwaite, Barber, Bunnell, Krause, Vennett, Foss, and Goodrich.

Frosh Break Into Win Column Over Ricker Team 26-0

The frosh football squad will have a day off this Saturday as the schedule calls for an open date. But it will be a day of work just the same in preparation for the battle with the Jayvees next Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m.

The jayvee team this year is a strong outfit with some of the members of the varsity squad being used in order to give them a chance to play. The second squad won from Higgins by a 13-6 score in a driving rain storm and will play M.C.I. Saturday.

Frosh Take Ricker

The Frosh lost their first game to the Big Green of Hebron but bounced back last week against Ricker to win by a 26-0 count. In less than ten minutes the first stringers had pushed over three touchdowns and settled the outcome of the game.

Possible Lineup

The starting lineup is not definite but will probably be made up of some of the following: ends: Bob Emerson and Leo Pratt; tackles: Jim Sprague, Mike Mininni, and Bob Goodell; guards: Nick Vafiades and Al Torrey; and Bob Cahoon at center. In the backfield the list includes Dana Bunker at quarter, Windy Work and Herb Gent at left half; Al Smaha and Bob Couri at right half, and Bud Lyford at fullback.

Campus Brevities . . .

Lawrence Upton, deputy chief of the Maine State Police, will speak on the work of the state police at 6 South Stevens, Oct. 21, at 3:15 p.m. at the regular lecture of the class in Maine Government, according to an announcement by Prof. Edward F. Dow this week. The lecture is open to the public.

The following pledge reports have been received and properly recorded, Stanley G. Phillips, Jr., secretary of the Interfraternity Council, announced this week.

To Tau Epsilon Phi: Roy J. Deisel, Joseph H. Dondis, Jack Lebovitz, and Morris Dublinsky. To Beta Theta Pi: Gordon B. Smith. To Sigma Alpha Epsilon: Albert F. Reynolds and Joseph A. Wenckus.

All juniors who have not yet had their pictures taken for the 1943 "Prism" should make arrangements at once with Dick White at his studio in Orono, David Hempstead, editor-in-chief, said this week.

Editors of the junior section have also issued a call for all informal snapshots of junior class members. The pictures should be properly identified, bear the sender's name, and be sent to the junior editor of the "Prism," Campus.

Thirty members of the class in social pathology went on a tour of inspection of the State School at Pownal Wednesday.

A clinic was held for the class, during which various types of mental defectiveness were demonstrated and causes pointed out.

Wooster Arranges Off-Campus Party

Mildred Wooster was appointed chairman of the combination scavenger hunt and vic party to be held by the Off-Campus Women on Oct. 24, at a meeting of the executive committee held recently. The traditional Halloween refreshment of doughnuts and cider will be served by the chairman and her committee, which will consist of Charlotte Willett, Julia Worthing, and Edith Merrill.

At the same meeting, the following women were selected to represent the Off-Campus Women at the caucus on Oct. 28 to nominate candidates for class officers: seniors, Helen Mehan; juniors, Mary Parkhurst; sophomores, Maida Cosseboom; freshmen, Eleanor Preble and Charlotte Annis.

There will be a special meeting of the Off-Campus Women on Monday.

Contributors Meet Sunday

The first meeting of the Contributors' Club will be held Sunday, Oct. 19, at 3:00 p.m. in the Balentine sun parlors. Three original selections will be read by Rita Ross, Beatrice Besse, and Priscilla Loring.

Six were initiated into the organization at the annual initiation ceremonies held last week. Those who were admitted were Ruth Troland, Rebecca Hill, Merle Hillman, William Talbot, Rita Ross, and Preston Rand. Three others were unable to attend.

Rita Ross heads the committee for the stag dance which will be held Oct. 24 in the Alumni gymnasium. Others on the committee are Ruth Troland and Sally Linnell. Money raised from the dance will be used to obtain a lecturer for one of the meetings, and to pay up last year's bills.

Chadwick Plays Masque Lead

Lewis Chadwick, veteran in the Maine Masque, will replace Vincent LaFlamme in the male lead of "The Golden Apple," first production of the year, according to an announcement made yesterday by Herschel Bricker, director. LaFlamme has been forced to give up the part because of a heavy schedule of courses, Bricker said.

Chadwick, who was to have been stage manager of the production, has a long series of successful roles behind him, having played in "Girl of the Golden West," "Our Town," "Stage Door," and "Hamlet." In the coming production, scheduled for Nov. 3, 4, 5, and 6, Chadwick will play opposite Katherine Rice. Miss Rice is a transfer from Emerson College, to which she won a scholarship in 1940-41.

"The Golden Apple" has now been in production for over a week, rehearsals taking place in the attic of North Stevens Hall.

Freshmen Meet Upperclass Girls

The Panhellenic Council is sponsoring a series of meetings to enable the freshman girls and transfer women to become better acquainted with the sororities on campus. This series is to cover a period of three weeks, and will run up to the beginning of the rushing period.

At a meeting held last week in the faculty room in South Stevens, the date of the Panhellenic Banquet was set for Monday, Oct. 27. The matter of price and other arrangements are to be investigated further before the final decisions are made.

It was also decided that bowpinning will be done on Wednesday, Oct. 16. Bid lists for upperclassmen will be due on Tuesday, Oct. 14. The girls will come to the faculty room to receive their bids.

Engineers Visit Grand Lake Dam

Professors Joseph M. Trefethen and Alpheus C. Lyon, of the Civil Engineering department, drove Saturday, Oct. 4, to the site of the new dam being built at the foot of Grand Lake on the East Branch of the Penobscot River, to study hydraulic and geologic conditions there.

The contractors on this work are Wyman, U. of M. '07, and Simpson. The dam is the property of the Bangor Hydro-Electric Company and will be used to develop the storage on Grand Lake.
